

SEEKING TO OBTAIN
REMAINS OF BENTON

WASHINGTON GOVERNMENT EXERTS EVERY INFLUENCE TO COMPEL SURRENDER OF BODY.

APPEAL TO CARRANZA

Mexicans and Americans Bring Pressure to Bear on Constitutional Chief to Test His Authority.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Feb. 26.—The American government today was exerting every influence at its disposal to obtain from General Villa the surrender of the body of William S. Benton, the British subject, recently executed at Juarez. No reply had been received to the instruction sent to Consul Lecher yesterday to find Benton's grave and Secretary Bryan was surprised by news dispatches quoting Villa as saying Benton was buried in Chihuahua City. There have been persistent reports here, too, that the body was cremated.

No New Developments.
Secretary Bryan conferred with President Wilson and said that nothing new in the situation had developed. Official denial came from the White House of one published report that Rear Admiral Fletcher had recommended the landing of marines at Vera Cruz.

Attention chiefly was centered on the Benton investigation and high officials conceded that future developments of the American policy toward Mexico hinged largely on the outcome of the inquiry.

Another feature of the situation was the fact that the Benton incident prompts development in test of Carranza's authority and influence as chief of the constitutional movement. Every sort of pressure, it is understood, is being brought to bear on Carranza, both by Americans and Mexicans, who have the confidence of Washington officials with the idea of impressing upon him the necessity of a clear and convincing explanation of all the circumstances surrounding the death of Benton.

Tests Carranza's Power.
If Carranza cannot obtain that from Villa, the power of the so-called "first chief of the constitutionalists" will fall in the estimation of the Washington government.

Officials here have for some time been disposed to feel kindly toward Carranza and favorable reports on his character were transmitted to President Wilson by William Bayard Hale. However, it developed, however, that Carranza is without control over Villa, it is more than probable that relations with Carranza will be viewed by officials as of less importance hereafter.

Persons in a position to know the views of the president and his cabinet officers saw the disposition of the administration is to insist upon the fact of the Benton episode and possession of the body for medical examination, but that there is nothing yet to indicate a critical stage.

Mexico City Rumor.
Mexico City, Feb. 26.—Provisional President Huerta today refused permission to the United States government to send two thousand American marines as a guard for the legation here. This information came direct from General Huerta himself.

General Huerta said he was asked by Washington to agree to the dispatch in addition to the American troops of 1,000 more men made up of German, English and French. To all of this he returned a negative reply on the ground that there was no need for such precaution.

Denial by President.
Washington, Feb. 26.—Word came direct from President Wilson himself today that the United States never had requested permission to send marines to Mexico City and had neither discussed nor taken up the subject in any way with Mexican officials.

Another published report which attracted attention of officials was to the effect that the United States never had requested permission to send marines to Mexico City and had neither discussed nor taken up the subject in any way with Mexican officials.

At a conference today between Secretary Bryan and Ambassador Spring Rice, it was decided that British Consul Percival will not proceed into Mexico for the examination of William Benton's body until "better arrangements can be made."

Skeptical of Story.
El Paso, Tex., Feb. 26.—Investigation of the story told last night by A. Michaels to the effect that Gustav Bauch and other Americans were locked up in Juarez was set on foot today.

Despite Michaels' assertion that his father is a Brooklyn, New York, banker, his tale was received skeptically. For American Consul Edwards has been assured that with the exception of William Benton and the removal of Bauch no foreigners remain behind the bars.

No American Prisoners.
"I am convinced that there are no American political prisoners at Juarez. I know there are a number of alleged small crooks locked up in the city jail," declared Consul Edwards today in connection with the story told last night by A. Michaels, who declared he had just left the Juarez jail where he had been prisoner, and that Gustav Bauch and thirteen other Americans were there at the time of his release.

"I do not recognize Michaels under that name," continued the consul, "but his refusal to go to El Paso or to come to see me indicates pretty plainly that he does not care to meet the El Paso police."

Hopes for a Change.
Washington, Feb. 26.—Representative Kahn, republican of California, in an address in the house today expressed the hope that the administration would adopt a new policy toward Mexico, one which would bring about peace and tranquility in the southern republic. While opposing armed intervention he asserted that "the present policy, unless speedily and radically changed, must inevitably lead to armed intervention."

WOMAN WINS FAVOR IN ITALIAN COURT

American Woman Succeeds in Contest for Popularity at Roman Post.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Rome, Feb. 26.—Demetria Coromilas, formerly Miss Anna E. Cockrell, daughter of Senator Cockrell of Missouri, has just effected the conquest of Rome. She has done it, too, in very much the same way that Caesar did over one of his victories. She put over one of her victories. She came, she saw and she conquered. She didn't have any edge either way over Caesar as regards difficulties and opposition.

The announcement from Athens of the appointment of a Greek minister to the United States, former minister to Washington and later minister of foreign affairs in the Greek cabinet, aroused a storm of protest at Rome.

King Constantine made the appointment. It is declared, merely because Signora Coromilas asked him to, and as she declared, merely because she wanted a look in on Roman society.

Between this allegation and the fact that it was under the administration of Signora Coromilas that relations between Italy and Greece became much strained, Rome prepared to give a cold shoulder to Signora Coromilas.

A number of Roman papers suggested that if the American wife of the Greek minister had merely wanted to come to Rome because she had the idea that Rome was something of a climatic resort, she would likely find herself mistaken. They intimated that she would encounter a rather frosty atmosphere here.

Signora Coromilas, however, has been here just a month and Rome is at her feet. At a recent dinner given by King Victor Emmanuel in honor of the Greek premier, Signora Coromilas had a post of honor close to his majesty and carried off honors of the one of the most beautiful and brilliant women present.

Any frostiness that might have still lurked in the bosom of some had to thaw out by force after the attention paid to Signora Coromilas by the king, and her conquest of the court and diplomatic circles is now conceded to be complete.

Senator Dillingham Fosters Bill For University Appropriation For District of Columbia.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Feb. 26.—George Washington's wish expressed in his will that a University of the United States be established in the District of Columbia may be fulfilled by a bill introduced by Senator Dillingham. The university should provide the highest possible instruction in the sciences, arts and letters to promote the advancement of knowledge by original research and to relate itself to state universities as to encourage elevation and uniformity of standards.

The bill would appropriate not more than $500,000 for grounds and buildings and a fund of five millions, the income of which would be used to maintain the university.

RESCUE SURVIVORS FROM WRECKED SHIP

Crew on Stranded Vessel Jump Into Heavy Seas and Are Picked Up By Boats—Seven Drown.

Conanza, Spain, Feb. 26.—The German steamship Widenfels, today landed fourteen survivors of the Danish S. S. Eklipka, which foundered in the Bay of Biscay during a storm on February 23.

The rescue of the shipwrecked sailors, occurred amid enormous seas. Boats were lowered from the Widenfels, and the survivors were picked up by the Eklipka. Everybody on the Eklipka jumped into the water and fifteen were picked up, but the captain of the Danish vessel was fatally injured and died before he had been dragged into the life boats. Seven of the crew were drowned.

Merchants are coming to realize more and more that when they write an advertisement they are painting a business portrait of themselves indicating their business character.

They are more careful in their statements, more modest in their language, and pay more attention to typography and illustration.

Advertising will be prepared this year even more carefully than ever before and there will be more of it.

And by the same token it is going to be more interesting and profitable to the readers.

SEEK NOBEL PRIZE
FOR PROF. BABCOCK

North Dakota Men Start Agitation to Secure Honors for Wisconsin Inventor.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Feb. 26.—The fifty or more North Dakota farmers who are visiting dairy farms of Wisconsin this week have started a movement to have the Nobel prize of $40,000 awarded to Prof. S. M. Babcock, famous the world over for his invention of the Babcock milk test. At a luncheon given to the farmers at the university on Tuesday some of the North Dakota citizens mentioned the matter. It was at this meeting that Prof. Babcock was the center of an informal and enthusiastic reception. Thus far two citizens of the United States have been awarded the Nobel prize, former president Theodore Roosevelt and Bill Rood, now United States senator from the state of New York.

Sacrifices a Fortune.
At the informal discussion regarding the subject the question arose as to whether or not the prize could be brought within the purview of subjects generally considered of sufficient importance. It was pointed out that Prof. Babcock had refused to patent his invention, thus sacrificing millions which he might have crystallized into a vast fortune. It was pointed out that Nobel was a Swede, and that the Swedish nation was celebrated for its dairying and that its people would be in sympathy toward any movement to honor a person, like Babcock, who had done so much for the dairy interests.

Dr. Babcock was born in the state of New York in 1849, and for a number of years was a student of chemistry and later a professor at Cornell. He became a professor of agricultural chemistry at the University of Wisconsin in 1887. Following his discovery of the milk test, which was patented, the Wisconsin legislature awarded him a bronze medal in 1899 and he was given the grand prize at the Paris exposition in 1900. In 1904 he was awarded the grand prize at the St. Louis exposition.

Gains Public Notice.
It was his refusal to profit by his invention that had brought him into public notice. Some years ago in a commercial firm in the east, realizing Babcock's ability, offered him a fabulous salary to join its staff, expecting anything but an unfavorable reply. Days passed and finally the answer came.

"I am working on a couple of unfinished experiments and cannot accept the position," was the substance of the message.

ARSON SQUAD BURNS
AN HISTORIC CHURCH

Edifice Erected at White Kirk in Sixteenth Century Destroyed by Militant Women.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Dunbar, Scotland, Feb. 26.—An arson squad of militant suffragettes today burned to the ground the historic parish church of the village of White Kirk. A quantity of suffrage literature was left strewn about the scene.

The church was erected in the 16th century and contained many relics of the battle in which the Scotch were routed by Oliver Cromwell's forces in 1650. In the vicinity is the famous battle ground of Dunbar, where the English defeated the Scotch in 1296 and caused John Baeli to give up the crown of Scotland. Many priceless relics and curios from the Holy Land were destroyed by the fire.

The incendiaries had sprayed the interior of the church with inflammable oils. They also used explosives which shattered several massive slabs of stone.

Confirmation of the statement that no story are being taken by the British government for the denunciation of Miss Zelle Emerson, militant suffragette of Jackson, Mich., was given by Reginald McKenna, home secretary, in a printed reply to a question put to him in the house of commons today. The home secretary added, however, that Miss Emerson again commits an offense bringing her within the provisions of the aliens act the question of applying to the court for a recommendation for her expulsion will be considered.

NORTH DAKOTA MEN SEE BADGER FARMS

Spend Day at Wisconsin Agricultural College Absorbing Latest Farming Ideas.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 26.—Farmers and business men of western North Dakota, numbering over half a hundred, absorbed the Wisconsin spirit and gained a conception of Badger agricultural processes Tuesday in a visit to the Wisconsin college of agriculture. In a special train the delegation came from Williston and other Williams county towns of North Dakota, and left yesterday for Waukesha and Milwaukee, where it will leave for Roseau, Minn., then home.

A luncheon at the college and a dinner by Madison citizens at night were social vents provided for the visitors. At the luncheon, given at Lathrop hall, and except for the coffees being entirely Wisconsin-produced, the speakers were Dean H. L. Russell, Governor McGovern, E. M. McMahon, university regent and secretary of the Madison board of commerce; F. R. Crane, agricultural extension agent for the Great Northern railway; W. H. Webb of Superior, and Rev. W. W. Keltner of Williston, N. D.

Professor Babcock presented. The luncheon was one of the rare occasions when Professor Stephen H. Babcock, the eminent scientist and inventor of the world-famed milk test, introduced himself to public view. In the elaborately appointed reception hall Mr. Babcock was presented to the western farmers. His modesty, which has become proverbial, was in evidence, but none went away without a shake of the hand. One of the warmest greetings came from Governor McGovern. Professor Babcock was "the man" who gave away millions of dollars, in recognition of his action in refusing to patent his great invention.

The guests also included Secretary of State John S. D. Smith, State Commissioner R. P. Packer, former Commissioner A. D. Campbell, Milwaukee; M. Wes. Tubbs of the Equity society, Dr. R. C. Bumpus and members of the Madison college faculty and newspaper men.

Laud Dairy Business. Governor McGovern told the visitors that Wisconsin agricultural perfection has made Wisconsin butter, cheese and poultry worth more in the market than those of neighboring states. Mr. McMahon spoke for the citizens of Madison. Professor Crane of the visiting party said that an example of the way Wisconsin is doing things was the fact that the state was on the schedule for every hour of their stay. He said that Wisconsin had been "reclaimed" by using the dairy cow in the matter of the fertility of the soil, he declared. Wisconsin is "putting it all over Wisconsin," and that his state has possibilities Wisconsin never dreamed of. On March 7 at Grand Forks will be held a North Dakota products luncheon, to which noted men from all states will come. Dean H. L. Russell will represent Wisconsin. This meeting will be held to advertise the state's vast agricultural opportunities and resources.

Northern Wisconsin. W. H. Webb spoke on the possibilities of northern Wisconsin. He said his section can show southern Wisconsin farmers that they have "not a thing to learn" from the north know about dairying. Driving through one northern county last week, he said he saw fifty North Dakota men, who have settled here, and he told the delegation there was no necessity to run away from a state of such fertility as North Dakota, and that only the introduction of new methods and the taking advantage of every opportunity are needed to bring their possibilities into the prominence they merit.

W. W. Keltner of Williston, a minister and farmer, lauded the greatness of his home state. The morning and afternoon Tuesday were spent in an inspection of the various college departments and methods.

WISCONSIN BREEDERS WIN NATIONAL FAME Wisconsin's claims of superiority in the livestock industry do not depend alone upon her many advantages and her prize winning flocks and herds, for many of her breeders have won national fame outside of the show ring. Among Badger stockmen who are at present honored with important positions in the livestock world may be mentioned the following: Frank Harding, Waukesha, president American Short-Horn Breeders' Association, and secretary-treasurer of the American Cattle Registry Association; C. L. Hill, Roseau, president of the American Guernsey Cattle club, and secretary Western Guernsey Breeders' Association; Malcolm H. Gardner, Delavan, superintendent of the Advanced Registry of Holstein-Friesian; J. A. Unbelievable. Of course we have all heard many strange tales and unbelievable stories, but did any one ever hear of a woman who kept boarders and had a husband who paid the grocery bills?

THE TRAFFIC AGAIN TEACHES A LESSON

Strong Play Produced at Myers Theatre by Capable Company Holds Audience Spellbound.

Rachael Marshall's picture of the "white slave traffic," as depicted in "The Traffic," is one of the strongest plays that has been produced on the local stage in years. It is a moral, it teaches a lesson that goes home to the audiences that witness it. Wednesday evening's production was the second given in Janesville, and while the audience was not as large as the first, it was a lesson that goes home to the audiences that witness it. DOOR KNOB AND BELL COMBINED Rattle the Handle and It Rings a Bell on the Inside of the Door. When one is confronted by a hurried door which is not supplied with a bell or knocker, the most natural thing to do is to rattle the knob. It is a new invention which has been recently patented, the act of rattling the knob will ring a bell which is located on the back of the door. This dispenses with the uncertainty of the electric bell, which must be given time to maintain its operating order. The external appearance of the knob is exactly the same as any other, but inside there is a curved segment secured to the back of the knob. As this is moved back and forth in the movement of the knob a lever which operates the bell is actuated and causes the bell to ring.

IF MEALS SOUR AND TURN INTO GAS, TAKE SODA

When everything we eat turns to gas and we eructate sour food and acid fluids it means there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach, says a noted authority. This in turn retards the process of digestion and promotes food fermentation. Our meals sour in the stomach like garbage in a can, forming gases which inflate the stomach, cause a very bad odor, causing a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest, constant belching of gas, sour risings or heartburn, fullness and often nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy a package of 10-grain Soda-grain tablets and take one tablet anytime followed by a tumbler of water which will instantly neutralize acidity, stop food fermentation, absorb the gases and sweeten the entire digestive system.

He further states that those troubled with chronic acidity should take one tablet regularly an hour after meals for awhile, as this simple antacid is entirely harmless, being composed of Soda, Magnesia and Calcium Carbonate U. S. P.

NO WEDDING OF OCEANS AT PANAMA. All this talk one hears about the wedding of the waters of the Atlantic and the Pacific in the Panama Canal sounds ridiculous to the man who knows just what the canal is. It is a fact, not only way the waters of two oceans ever can get together at Panama will be for someone to carry a bucketful from each ocean and pour it out in Gatun Lake. The Pacific comes no farther across the Isthmus than Miraflores, which is only a few miles inland from the shore. Nor does the Atlantic go any further inland than Gatun, which also is only a few miles from the coast line. The other thirty-five miles of the canal is a big body of fresh water supplied by the Chagres River and other small streams. Between Gatun and Pedro Miguel, some thirty-two miles, the surface of this water is eighty-five feet above the waters of the Chagres in the two oceans. All the water for locking ships is supplied by this lake.

One thing has been done, however, that is generally overlooked. The building of Gatun Dam and the digging of Cutleria Cut have so increased the height of the Chagres waters and lowered the height of the continental divide that now the touch of a lever can send the waters of the Chagres in to either ocean. It has been a case of meeting halfway. Cutleria Cut has brought the mountain down and building Gatun Dam has carried the river up until the river can flow through the mountain.

The story of the Panama Canal is told in this graphic way in the new book "The Panama Canal" by Frederick J. Haskin. It's the book on the canal, and with the O. K. of Colonel Goethals on its construction chapters, you will know it is accurate, while your own mind will declare it fascinating. Watch the coupons in this newspaper, save them, and get this book for yourself.

Sell your house or any other piece of real estate you may have through the want ad. column—the cost is but a trifle. SEEDS BY PARCEL POST NOW SEEMS PROBABLE. Prospects are bright that seeds will be put under the parcel post classification, at least seeds in parcels weighing eight ounces or over. At present seeds are rated as fourth class mail matter, and come under the flat rate of one cent for each ounce. Twelve Wisconsin congressmen and one Wisconsin senator, replying to letters containing copies of a resolution adopted at the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Livestock Breeders' Association asking that parcel post rates apply to the transportation of seeds through the mail, expressed the desire to aid in any legislation necessary to accomplish the change of the existing classification. The post office committee has passed favorably upon this matter, and has placed a provision in the general post office legislation bill, recently reported to congress.

OBITUARY. Thomas Lawles. Funeral services for Thomas Lawles were held this morning at 8:30 from the Ryan undertaking rooms, and at 9 o'clock from the St. Patrick's church. Interment was made at Mt. Olivet cemetery. The pallbearers were George McWay, H. McKewen, Joseph McCann, James White, James Sheridan and Jerry Sullivan. Father Maroney officiated, celebrating high mass, and delivering the sermon.

Mothers Often at Wit's End—trying to find a safe, nourishing food that will agree with the baby that has just been weaned. This is an important epoch, and on securing proper food depends the future growth and health of the child. Grape-Nuts prepared as follows has often solved the perplexing problem. Place one or two teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts in a cup of hot water; stir for five minutes, at intervals; pour off the liquid portion and add a little sugar. Feed this "liquid Grape-Nuts" to the child. Milk and cream, and more of the softened Grape-Nuts may be added later on. This food is convenient, economical and safe. It is worthy a trial, especially where other "Infant Foods" do not make good.

Connie Mack, declare his friends, has become a raving nut about golf. There are many who hope that thoughts of the game will so occupy him while sitting on the bench that he will forget to signal his orders. Which, if he should, would help the opposition no little.

Funny thing, but thus far this year there has not been heard the cry that Eddie Plank is to retire from the game. As a general rule the approach to the training season is not complete without a well spread rumor that Plank is about to retire. And this year the training season is right at hand, too. For the first time in several years at this season Eddie Plank's retiring has been phoned. When the world series brought the season to a close last year, a number of sport writers began to sob and sigh that poor old Eddie wouldn't be able to appear another season. But it's a pretty safe bet that when the going re-verberates on April 14 Eddie will be warming up along the side lines and ready to step in when called upon. And Connie Mack has said that he expects to see Plank still there pitching good ball five years hence.

While it doesn't take place in every encounter, the truth is that a

OUTLAWS MAKE GAME FIGHT WITH MAJORS

Baseball Fans Arguing Over Prospect of Success of New Federal League.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] New York, Feb. 26.—When the Federal league was just beginning to break into print and disturb the peace of mind of organized baseball, one of the chief stocks in the trade of argument against the possibility of the league being able to live was the statement of big baseball officials that there was no place for another organization, it was declared, and therefore the Federals could not exist. As a result of the recent meetings of the leagues in New York, however, we now know that organized baseball itself has been considering for the past two or three years the establishment of a third major league circuit. Also that one of the "war plans" considered in the early days was the placing of a third league in the field to combat the Federals. All of which indicates anything but that one may wish to take it as indicating.

As might be supposed, there are many things to consider in establishing a third major league circuit. Most of the baseball officials admit that a third major league would support two ball teams. Baseball has reached the stage where it is taken as a steady diet by the fans and continuous ball is looked upon with favor in the larger cities. One of the sticking points has been the matter of players, however. Star ball players are scarce. The sand lots, minor leagues and colleges are combed every year for talent. Few ever get any further than the training camps and go scampering back to the high grass soon after the season opens. Others come up from the training camps and are not turned back, but they are not heard of again for two or three years. As a matter of fact some of the clubs leading the two big leagues have men buried on the bench who are better ball players than perform daily for the tailenders, and there you are.

The major leagues knew they would have difficulty putting a third circuit under way. No one would be willing to give up, but if the Federals keep at it they may show how it can be done. "The only way a third major league could be started by organized ball," said a well known manager here recently, "would be to take some of the men from each of the clubs in the American and National league as a charge there would be of getting any nucleus for the league. But one of the club owners to loosen up. Why, I could have won a pennant one year if I could have bought, borrowed or stolen a catcher when all of my regulars were out of the game, injured. Could I get one? Yes, just like I could persuade John D. Rockefeller to pay his $12,000,000 in Cleveland. The club owners hang on to what they have, and there would be fine time selling players for the new league."

Connie Mack had Walsh, center fielder for the Athletics during the last world's series, buried for two years. Walsh was then a star but Mack had men of such high caliber there was no place for Walsh but on the bench. He played every position on the team at one time or another while waiting around for some veteran to crack and make a place for him. These men who are doing time on the bench are inexperienced and need training, it is true, but whenever a greater demand for a star develops they will begin coming to the top. If the Federal league cuts in and is able to grab off some of the star minor league players the two big leagues may be forced to pull out some of player steals home every once in a while. A small percentage of the stolen bases are those that make the home plate, but nevertheless there are more than perhaps the average fan would think. An average of about 3,200 bases are stolen each year and of that number about 5 per cent or 160 steals are made home. Last year the Athletics in the American league made the record for steals home, they having turned the trick sixteen times. In the National league the Pirates made more than anyone else, having reached the plate on steals fourteen times. Ty Cobb was the individual star in this connection, stealing home eight times. Eddie Collins ranked next with five and Tris Speaker four.

The Federals are having a tough time with their schedule. The matter of arranging one that will provide dates not conflicting with those of the National and American leagues and the American association and International has already made them trouble enough. And then to add to their vexations, Robert B. Ward, the owner of the Brooklyn Feds, comes forth to announce that he will not allow his team to play on Sunday. Ward, who is a millionaire baker, insists that he never sold a loaf of bread on the Sabbath and that he will never permit a ball team belonging to him to play on the seventh day. The difficulty of keeping the Brooklyn team out of Sunday playing towns on Sundays will make the arrangement of the Fed schedule all the harder. And should the Brooklyn team prove a pennant contender and the league establish a real following the inability of the Brooklyn team to play on Sunday will cost many of the clubs quite a few thousand dollars.

their bench warmers a little sooner. Because stars are scarce now is no reason for believing that they will continue to be. It is natural to suppose that the more baseball there is to be played the more players there will be developed and the percentage of stars will increase in proportion. The Federal league is in a position to wreck the minor leagues of the country if it cares to, in the opinion of Joe Tinker. He has pointed out where the major leagues pay fabulous prices for a minor league star (the money going to the club owner) the Federals may secure such a player by simply bidding to the player direct and meeting the offer of organized baseball with an offer of salary to the player equal to the amount the majors pay for him. After organized ball makes the purchase they would still have the man's salary to pay, but the Federals would have the care of that by turning the big money to the player in the form of salary instead of handing it to the club owner. As the big money in minor league ball comes from the sale of players these interests are hammering loudly the big fellows to find some way of stopping the Feds, taking them into the fold or doing something to avert disaster. Of course the idea of wrecking the minors works both ways for without the minors no crops of major league players would be developed. The Federals would thus be crawling out on a limb and saving it off, which rises the question of how far they would go with such war measures.

OLDFIELD RULES FAVORITE IN SANTA MONACA RACE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Santa Monica, Cal., Feb. 26.—With perfect weather prevailing and thousands of motor enthusiasts lining the course, sixteen racing drivers brought their high powered cars to the Santa Monica race course starting line today and awaited the pistol crack which was to send the first car away in the 1914 Vanderbilt cup race. Barney Oldfield ruled favorite when the race began, with Earl Cooper, winner of the last Santa Monica road race, a close second.

Paint Without Oil

Remarkable Discovery That Cuts Down the Cost of Paint Seventy-Five Per Cent.

A Free Trial Package is Mailed to Everyone Who Writes. A. L. Rice, a prominent manufacturer of Adams, N. Y., has discovered a process of making a new kind of paint without the use of oil. He calls it Powderpaint. It comes in the form of a dry powder and all that is required is cold water to make a paint weather proof, fire proof and as durable as oil paint. It adheres to any surface, wood, stone or brick, spreads and looks like oil paint and costs about one-fourth as much as oil paint. Write to Mr. A. L. Rice, Manufacturer, 730 North St., Adams, N. Y., and he will send you a free trial package, also color card and full information showing you how you can save a good many dollars. Write today.

CARDINAL BOWLERS MAKE THIRD PLACE

Younger Five Nose Out Superior Team in Last Game of Match, Winning by 19 Pins. Captain Hemming and his team of bowlers are out of last place in the Y. M. C. A. bowling league for the first time this season. They were a beaten quintet last evening, in their match with the Giants, until the last game, when they took a spurt, and made strikes in rapid succession. The final total showed that the Cards had won by 19 pins. The Giants are now in last place. Reno Koch was high man with 177. The scores are as follows:

Cardinals	Giants
Hemming	107 124 155
McVicar	180 138 132
Kepp	123 105 153
Koch	95 177 94
Ferguson	104 108 130
Ferguson	114 98 170
Totals	599 631 694-1924

It is not likely that the Iroquois bowlers, who have held the lead in the bowling league at the Y. M. C. A. for the past month, will boast of their much heralded five any more, for they met a deciding trimming Tuesday night at the association alleys, the Maroons winning by 162 pins.

Steady bowling by Ed. Kohler, who averaged a fraction over 162, kept his Maroon five in the race all of the time, while the first game rolled by the Iroquois, which only totaled 592 accounts in part for their beating. The scores for the match follow:

Iroquois	Maroons
Reoth	120 170 153
Hill	138 111 141
Harker	113 142 132
Slater	122 127 119
Hughes	141 114 130
Totals	592 664 715-1971

The standings of the teams in the percentage column are as follows:

Team	Percentage
Maroons (Kohler)	75.5
Iroquois (Booth)	72.0
Cardinals (Hemming)	62.0
Giants (Huebel)	51.0

Neighbors landed in second position in the city bowling tournament last night, when they pushed over a score of 1006 by steady and brilliant rolling. Dickerson and Osborn, who were counted upon to cut a fancy figure in the job, fell down and only chalked up a total of 952. Both teams resolved to better Abraham and Rattery's score, but they failed, the former team rolling 1006, falling short by the last round, the singles Cook knocked over a total of 527 which put him twenty-two points behind Neighbors for the lead among the high men in the individual events.

In the billiard matches Hinder increased his margin on first position by defeating Allison. In this match Hinder easily succeeded in the speed limit and left Allison far in the rear despite his handicap. Clithero moved up a peg by defeating Buchholz.

At the Smoke Shop. Only one game was scheduled at the Smoke Shop in the billiard tournament. Dr. Thuermer losing to Gridley by handicap. Thuermer, a scratch man, was only two points ahead of Gridley when the winner made his handicap mark of 130. This places Gridley in the lead with a percentage of a thousand, and Thuermer second.

TWO GAMES FOR HIGH QUINTET THIS WEEK

Monroe Will be Met Tomorrow at the Green County Seat, With Evansville Here Saturday Night.

The Beloit tournament next week has caused the Evansville and Jamesville high school fives to cancel their scheduled date for meeting, March 6th, owing to the fact both these teams are to be at the Beloit meet. As they still have the game scheduled an agreement was reached yesterday to play the contest on the local floor Saturday night of this week.

At the rate the team worked out last night, there will be no over-confidence shown either Friday or Saturday nights. They were given some good talks by several of the faculty members, and were informed that no broken ribs, legs or sickness would be taken as a legitimate excuse, if they met defeat at Monroe Friday. Such a defeat as occurred at Elkhorn may be accounted for to a certain extent, but a second similar defeat by a weaker team shows that there is something more radically wrong with the team.

It would certainly be a glorious celebration at the Jamesville high school should the team win the final at the Beloit meet. Among the teams who would have to recognize Jamesville as their superior, would be Edgerton, Elkhorn and Freeport, who are the latter attendants. If the team wins the Line City tourney, there is little doubt but what they will handle La Crosse at the state meet, and come home with a second successive championship. The team know how they can do it, and that a little bit of confidence is what has been lacking all year. Every man has previously depended on the others to score.

While the Evansville game Saturday night will not be as tight a contest as the Madison five exhibited a few weeks ago, it will be a game full of fight. Evansville are light, but it is said to be fast. The team would deem it a honor if they could have support at this contest, to aid them in a victory against Evansville, and to give them further confidence and determination to do things at Beloit and at Appleton. With an all-state center and forward, with Dalton, one of the scrappiest guards in the state, with lightning Stickey and speedy Stewart, and the team's new sensational sticking guard, Ray, the Jamesville five are not far behind last year's five in material. Can they do it? The team will have new suits by next week, it is thought. Their old ones have been wearing them for some time. Perhaps such a change in wearing apparel will make a difference.

Putting it Neatly. Bernard Shaw, although a vegetarian himself, did not fail to see the possibility of humor in the practice. Residing at a meeting, he was called upon to introduce Sir Edward Lyon, who confined his diet to nuts. "And now," said Mr. Shaw, "I present to you Sir Edward Lyon, he is of the earth, earthy, and of the nuts, nutty."

BOXERS ARRIVE IN CITY FOR MATCHES AT MYERS TONIGHT

Men Weigh in at Three O'clock and Pass Physical Examinations—Ready for the Gong.

Tonight's Fight Card. Young Ward vs. Young Scotty, six rounds, 120 pounds. Frank Linn vs. Joe Percente, six rounds, 140 pounds. Young Sharkey vs. Bud Corbett, eight rounds, 125 pounds. Willie Schaeffer vs. Walter Bauman, ten rounds, 145 pounds.

The stage is set, and the actors are ready for the boxing exhibition by the Bower City Athletic association at the Myers theatre tonight as the above named boxers passed their examinations and weighed in at three o'clock this afternoon and are awaiting the gong for the final actions. During the afternoon, hundreds of fans came in from nearby towns and the seats have nearly all been sold.

This morning Young Scotty arrived from Milwaukee and pronounced himself fit to chase Ward, who styles himself as the Beloit "Bear Cat," to the four corners of the ring, but Ward, when weighing in, declared that the Milwaukee boy would be thinking the sally hit him before the six rounds were over.

Willie Schaeffer, the Chicago whirlwind, arrived at noon and looked fit for a hard tussle. Schaeffer has battled such boxers as Walters, Stanley, Whitney and has a belt full of trophies to his record. At Sioux City, Iowa, he battled Packey McFarland, the stock yards pride of Chicago, for six rounds, and gave this famous battler a run for his money.

"I am in condition for a hard match," said Schaeffer, when weighing in, "and although I have never seen Bauman perform, he can expect he will have to travel with all brakes not be as tight a contest as the Madison five exhibited a few weeks ago, it will be a game full of fight. Evansville are light, but it is said to be fast. The team would deem it a honor if they could have support at this contest, to aid them in a victory against Evansville, and to give them further confidence and determination to do things at Beloit and at Appleton. With an all-state center and forward, with Dalton, one of the scrappiest guards in the state, with lightning Stickey and speedy Stewart, and the team's new sensational sticking guard, Ray, the Jamesville five are not far behind last year's five in material. Can they do it? The team will have new suits by next week, it is thought. Their old ones have been wearing them for some time. Perhaps such a change in wearing apparel will make a difference."

Can't keep from laughing when we see a little bit of a man with a great big look of disgust on his face.—Galveston Tribune.

JOSEPH RYAN IS NO LONGER A MEMBER OF BELOIT COLLEGE FIVE

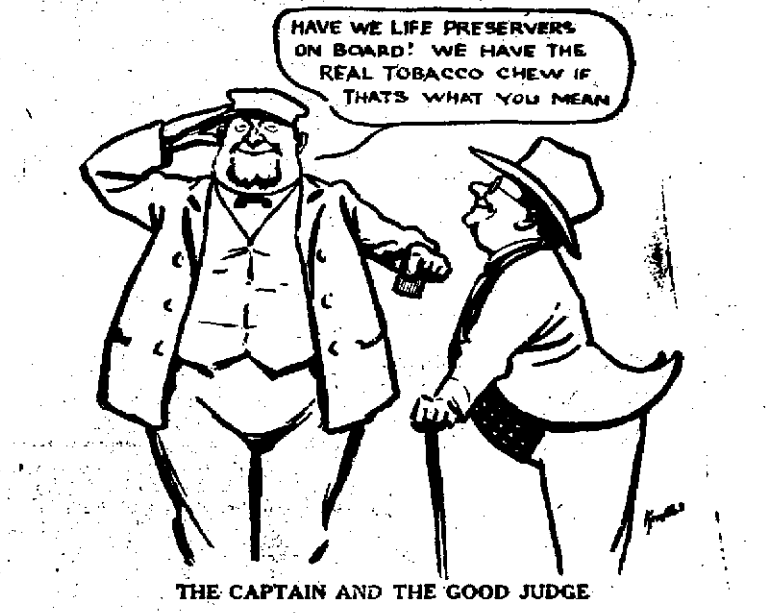

Joseph Ryan of this city, a student at Beloit College, and one of the mainstays of the varsity basketball team during the season, will not play with the five Friday night in their championship tilt with Armour Institute. His studies are mainly the cause for his dismissal.

Ryan has participated in all ten games played thus far this season, and has shown up in good form in every encounter. His loss will be felt greatly for it means that Edler will be shifted to his guard position from center, while Turner, a forward, will go in at center. Edler is more accustomed at guard, so that the backhall may be improved slightly, but the team as a whole will suffer because

STUPENDOUS INCREASE.

Thirty years is a long space of time. In it much can be accomplished for the good or bad of any community. Wars have been fought, nations created and perished within this space and yet even with the modern day idea of extravagance one could hardly contemplate the change that has been created in Wisconsin by the reformers. In 1890 the population of Wisconsin was but 1,686,880. It increased slowly to 2,069,045 in 1900, and only reached 2,333,560 in 1910. However, during that period the expenses of the state grew from $2,238,477.49 in 1890 to $2,635,192.85 in 1900, and then jumped to $11,722,535.24 in 1910. Think of that and then do not wonder that the per capita expenses grew from $1.27 in 1890 to $1.50 in 1900 and to $5.20 in 1910. Here is food for thought.

But here are some figures that perhaps explain this wonderful increase better than mere statements. In 1890 the board of control had but $7,548.88 to spend; in 1900, $25,353.47; in 1910, $39,140.82, and yet once more in 1913 the meagre sum of $50,932.40. Here is the bureau of labor for instance. Nominal in 1890 at $6,906.43, reaching $21,476.83 in 1900, but $44,235.00 in 1910, and only the negligible sum of $81,927.59 in 1913. The free library commission had but $4,908.97 in 1890, in the next ten years it reached $8,643.44, and again in 1910 had grown to $34,176.53. It topped $54,950.56 in 1913.

Now comes the railroad commission. Modestly it put its bill in for $2,238.40 in 1890, even wanted by $7,047.52 in 1900, but jumped to $95,306.66 in 1910, and being such a prolific source of revenue to the state swallowed up the modest sum of $165,366.11 in 1913. Now comes the state tax commission. The cause of all our trouble, some believe. No figures are available for 1890 because it was not created; 1900 gives the expenses at $17,028.21. Only thirty thousand jump in ten years to $47,021.01 in 1910 and then the grand total of $157,955.50 in 1913. Can you realize the immensity of this figure after hearing Adams and Haugen discuss taxation?

Now I am going to hand you some figures that should do more than amaze you. The state university, the nesting place, the hatching ground of the Wisconsin Idea that is costing us all so much money, in 1890 cost the state but $22,442.98. Strange to say the figures for 1900 show a decrease even in this figure, the total for the year being $173,568.19, but to and behold the decrease was more than made up in the figures for ten years later when the "idea" was fully hatched and the incubators at work and the total was $628,194.29. Education is expensive, but wait. In 1913 it jumped to $2,865,000.00. Here is something to seriously contemplate, and then study over your tax receipts again.

A few more figures. The Wisconsin State Historical society expenses grew from $9,800 in 1890 to $50,531.92 in 1913. The Dairy and Food Commissioner's office from $7,424.95 in 1890 to the modest sum of $56,610.26 in 1913. We have heard so much about the high ways I will quote figures for the past two years only. In 1912 the expenses were $99,955.40 and in 1913 they reached $308,590.04. Some increase that. Perhaps that explains some things not hitherto understood.

Now that we have contemplated the cost of the various departments, turn to the number of persons employed and note the increase. Just two years are given, 1911 first and 1913 second. The tax commission from 95 to 254. The railroad commission from 11 to 130. Civil service commission from 26 to 61. Free library commission from 41 to 87. The bureau of labor statistics only from 4 to 100, dairy and food commission from 24 to 32, and board of control from 28 to 61. The figures for the board of public affairs are for 1912 but 44, and 1913 only 66. The highway commission had but 62 employed in 1912 and increased this number to 80 in 1913.

Perhaps if these figures are kept in mind it may be easy to understand the material increase that comes in the tax budget. The taxpayer may appreciate what reform costs and why the cost has increased in the past thirty years from $1.27 in 1890 to $5.20 in 1910. At the meeting Saturday these questions are going to be discussed. Be there.

UP TO WILSON.

Apparently it is up to the president to settle the present Mexican trouble by taking a firm stand. There are enough of the Jingo element still alive in the United States who would like to see war declared and an armed intervention, but it is safe to say that the class is in the minority and if war should come would be far from the scene of the conflict. President Wilson is facing a hard problem just at present and is subject to all sorts of criticism, but if war can be prevented by diplomacy so much the better in the long run.

BE A BOOSTER.

Since the first of the year Janesville business and professional men have contributed nearly fifty thousand dollars for a hospital and fair. It speaks well for the civic pride of the city and should still the talk of the element who can see nothing good in their home city. Be a booster. Boost home industries, boost the new hospital, boost the fair, boost all the time until it becomes habit and is as natural as taking three square meals a day with you.

GOOD MAN NEEDED.

Aspirants for the office of city commissioner should be weighed carefully as to their fitness for the office they seek. It would be folly to choose a candidate for the office whose mere qualifications were that he was a good fellow. (When the city is paying the salaries it does it should have the best services available and care should be taken in the selection of the man to fill the job.)

Interest in the project to hold a fair in Janesville during the month of August has increased wonderfully these past few days and the plans of the directors of the Park Association, if carried out, means the success of the venture.

Now that the summer's ice is all harvested we may expect some warmer weather and perhaps the sun will do what the property-owners failed to accomplish in the way of removing snow and ice from the walks.

The democrats are still seeking jobs for the faithful and Secretary Bryan will remove every republican he can in the foreign service to keep pace with the demand.

A prominent steel magnate is reported to have killed a shark by thrusting an oar down its throat. What chance did the poor shark have against a steel trust owner?

This meeting of taxpayers Saturday at the court house should be replete with interest to the man who is paying his share of the state taxes this year and sees no redress.

This Panama coastwise toll proposition promises to stir up a lot of trouble before it is all settled. Wilson means to have his way "though the heavens fall."

The merry baseball war is still on. The sale of the Chicago Cubs by Charles Murphy may relieve the situation somewhat but it has not really ended the war.

Villa appears to be taking the stage center these days and perhaps Huerta was not such a bad sort of a personage after all, everything considered.

On the Spur of the Moment

A Change of Occupation.

Oh, what has become of the old-fashioned farmer. Who used to go out bright and early each morning. Before he had breakfast and work in the barnyard. Or plow six or seven acres of corn?

No longer he drives in an ancient spring wagon. To town with a tattered straw hat and blue jeans. He uses a touring car now in his travels. His wife has the choice of three fine limousines.

You see, things have changed since "way back in the nineties." "Tis years since the old man has followed the plow. For he and his wife are just rolling in riches. They take summer boarders at fancy rates now.

How to Become Famous.

We have a letter from a young man who is yearning to become famous, having tired of the humdrum of a bucolic existence. We are asked to put him on the road to fame. It is not so very difficult. If the young man will just follow any one of the suggestions appended hereto he will have his full name in large letters on the first page of every newspaper in the country.

Solve the problem of perpetual motion. Invent a time clock which every husband must punch when he arrives home late at night.

Run for president of this country and be elected.

Vote $10,000,000 to a university.

Fly across the Pacific ocean in an aeroplane. Invent a collar button that will not roll under the bureau.

Get up a list of excuses for night prowling husbands that will stand the supreme test. Write the long-lost-for great American novel.

Invent a pearl shirt stud that can be found when it is wanted.

Dolly Gray, Suffraget. Let him darn and let him mend; Dolly Gray, Let him mind the olive branch, Dolly Gray. Let him spend his time indoors Doing all the household chores, Let him cook and scrub the floors, Dolly Gray.

Let him darn and let him mend, Dolly Gray. Don't give him a cent to spend, Dolly Gray. Treat him in a way severe, Make him beg and shed a tear, When he wants to buy a beer, Dolly Gray.

Make him stay at home with the kid, Dolly Gray, For the car fare, even so, Dolly Gray. Let him all the home cares tote, Just for once make him the scout, Then, perhaps, he'll let you vote, Dolly Gray.

Things to Think About. It takes a bachelor or an old maid to tell married folks how to bring up children.

If the forests are not augmented soon there will be no wood for toothpicks, matches and lead pencils four million years from now.

You don't pronounce Gifford Pinchot's last name. You sneeze it. There are 457,893 vaudeville persons in this country at the present time who are singing "Peg O' My Heart."

The only sure way to become a contributor to the newspapers is to write patent medicine testimonials. A watermelon is an optimistic cucumber that has done well in life and a cucumber is a pessimistic watermelon. Think it over.

Little Benny's Note Book.

Mr. Parkins was down in the parlor with Gladdis last night and ma and me was in the setting room, ma sewing and me looking at my lessons and wondering how lawing it wood take me to do them, and awl of a sudden pop came running in, saying, For the love of Pet and holey matrimony, mother, your Parkins has gawn and dun it.

For goodness sakes, sed ma, how do you do. I was jest posessing the parlor, sed pop, and I happened to look in, and blest if he wasn't holding her to his manly buzzum as if he was never going to let her go. Ill go rite down and congratulate him.

So will I, sed ma. And pop went down stairs agen, ma following him and me following me, and heer Mr. Parkins and Gladdis was standing in the middle of the parter with there arms around each other like as anything as if they was jest starting to kiss. And me and ma stood at the door looking in and pop wawked in holding his hand away out, saying, Well, well, Ill sorry to interrupt sutch plezzint exercises, but Parkins, my boy, I sertenly must shake hands with you.

Why, sertenly, sertenly, sed Mr. Parkins. And he let go of Gladdis and him and pop shook hands, pop keeping awn shaking it and saying, Congratulations, Congratulations. What about sed Mr. Parkins.

Why, father, sed Gladdis, I saw you shake hands with Mr. Parkins ven you let him in this evening. O, did you, mean did I, sed pop, well, do you mean to say thares nuthing speshill to shake hands about jest now.

How do you mean, nuthing speshill, sed Mr. Parkins. Wat were you s doing wen I caim in, jest now, sed pop.

Mr. Parkins was meerly showing me sum noo steps in the hezertayshin waltz, why, sed Gladdis. O, I jest wundired, sed pop, well, I hope you dont mind being shakin hands with twise in the sam evening.

Not at awl, no harm, dun, sed Mr. Parkins. And for goodness sakes, wat are mother and Benny starin in the door for, sed Gladdis.

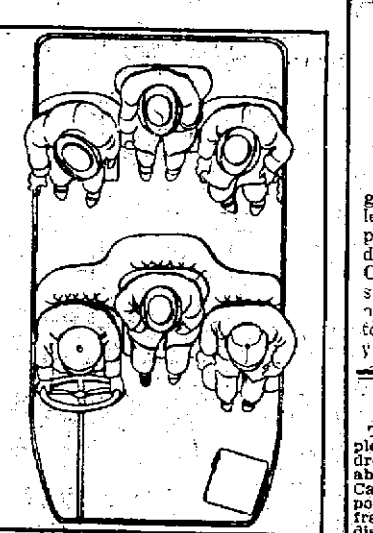

O, I was looking in, sed me, Im awn my way up stairs. Kant we look in if we want to, I sed.

Benny, keep kwiet and go up stairs, sed pop. Wich I did, ma and pop kumng up agen, to, ma saying to pop, Well yure a grate wun, you are pop. These noo dances awt to be sippedressed, sed pop.

SEATING ECONOMICALLY

Gives Automobile Greater Capacity Without Overcrowding.

It is the general experience of the automobile novice that at the start he is satisfied with a runabout, but as soon as he gets acquainted with that he wants a larger car. Why he has a four-seater he soon discovers that, as a rule, he wants to carry five or six persons. For this contingency the method of arranging the seats of an automobile has

Willing to Make a Bargain.

The naturally religious child, and most children are naturally religious, flies to the heavenly father in and under all trying circumstances. Kathleen, for instance, had lost her dog and was heart-broken. Earnest prayer failed to restore the missing Fido, and the second evening the troubled maiden promised, tearfully: "I'm afraid, dear God, that you're vexed with me over something, 'cause you haven't brought my doggie back; but if you'll only send him back to me this evening I'll be such a good little girl tomorrow and all next day!"

Which One?

Four boys were going along a country highway near Dayton, Ohio, when one found a bottle full of some mixture. It was passed around and tasted of, and the fourth boy, who got a bigger dose than the others, was made so ill that he was in bed for weeks. His father wants some one to pay the doctor's bill, but can't satisfy himself as to who was to blame. Was it the boy that found the bottle, the one that pulled the cork or the one that first tasted and passed the bottle on to the others? Here's a chance to keep you figuring.

THAT MASS MEETING ATTRACTS ATTENTION

INDICATIONS ARE STRONG FOR BIG GATHERING AT COURT HOUSE ON SATURDAY.

NO CANDIDATE BOOMED

It's Just a Matter of Administration Extravagance Which Results in Concerted Denouncement.

Referring to the mass meeting of Rock county farmers and business men which will be held at the court house Saturday afternoon, convening at one o'clock, the Racine Journal-News makes the following pertinent comment:

"Of course" this will be dubbed by the officials at Madison as another "stalwart" convention. Time will tell how near they are correct, but it is dollars to a dollar that after the convention is over they will have to revise their opinions greatly. At least if the movement in Rock county is similar to that in Lafayette county, regarding the convention held at Darlington it is interesting to note that persons who attended the Darlington convention in the guise of spectators in talking with friends confirm the stories of the convention as having been a "stunt" with the exception of a few minor particulars.

A Non-Political Move.
No sooner had the call been issued for the meeting than one newspaper in the county paraded the belief that there was to be a convention of "stalwarts" and disgruntled taxpayers. The disgruntled part may be correct, for Wisconsin citizens have reason to rise up in their wrath, but as to the stalwart charge, it is denied by the members of the old stalwart guard themselves, who are talking but a passive interest in the matter. As the men who signed the call insist as the call itself states, and as the conditions warrant, the movement is strictly non-partisan and will attract men of every political complexion.

As bearing on the question of what this movement means, here is something taken from the Grant County Democrat, in which county a convention will be held on March 19 at Lancaster, the county seat. The Democrat says:

"The politicians of the state should look at the handwriting on the wall." After stating that organizations of taxpayers are being formed everywhere the Democrat says:

"The assertion is often made that this or that meeting is being held to advance the candidacy of some fellow who wants office, but this is only the vapors of people who do not know of the men who want to be elected to office. This protest over the extravagance in state government is the biggest thing that has occupied the minds of the voters of the state in fifty years."

Citizens here are discussing the coming meeting and judging from the interest the circuit court chamber will be filled to capacity by one o'clock on Saturday. Janesville will have a large delegation, and the farmers will probably outnumber the city men. Seldom has there been such county-wide interest shown on a given topic.

TWO MEN DRAW NINETY DAY SENTENCE TODAY

Albert Jennings, a farm laborer, made his second appearance before Judge Maxfield in the municipal court this morning, and on his promise to obey the law for a period of one year and not appear in court again, was given a ninety day sentence after he had waived his examination and pleaded guilty. Jennings had been in the city since Monday and had been employed by a man going to visit a relative in the northern part of the state. During his spree he spent the greater part of two months' wages and was arrested by Officer Philo Kamm on Main street yesterday afternoon. The man readily gave his signature to the pledge and promised to keep it.

Richard Cogan, who gave his home as St. Louis, admitted that he was begging, and in an intoxicated condition when arrested by Patrolman Peter Champion at the Northwestern station yesterday afternoon and on his plea of guilty to both charges, given a ninety day term by Judge Maxfield. His wages will go to a seventeen year old sister living in St. Louis. Both were paroled out to work by Sheriff Whipple this afternoon.

RECEIVED INJURIES IN STREET CAR ACCIDENT ON FRANKLIN STREET

John Holt, residing at 527 Prairie avenue, employed as a tailor at Ford's clothing store, received serious injuries when he was thrown from a moving street car, which he had just boarded, at the intersection of Milwaukee and Franklin streets, shortly after five o'clock last evening.

Mr. Holt, an elderly man, was unable to protect himself because of a recent sickness, had just stepped onto the platform, when the car started, throwing him to the pavement. He was taken to the office of Dr. Wayne Munz and removed to his home after his injuries were given attention. Mr. Holt received painful bruises about the face, and it is thought likely his clavicle bone was fractured, and painful internal injuries.

WOMEN ARE ELIGIBLE TO SERVE ON BOARD

FIVE MEMBERS OF COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION TO BE ELECTED IN APRIL.

WILL JOBS GO BEGGING

With But Three Weeks Remaining in Which to File Papers No Aspirants for Positions Are Announced.

Unless some of the women of Rock county "throw their hats into the ring," or their gloves if that is the term that should be linked with a female politician in this connection, it looks as if five hundred good jobs would go begging this spring.

To date there has been no one man or woman, announced as a candidate for a place on the county board of education, which is provided for the county by the last legislature, although three weeks only remain for filing nomination papers. The board is composed of five members, who must be selected from the superior county district which excludes persons residing in any of the four cities of the county. The members are elected for a term of five years, a new member being chosen each year after the first when the length of the terms of the members named in April will be decided by lot.

Draw Per Diem Salary.

The members of the board will draw a per diem salary equal to that paid to the members of the county board in the case of Rock county for the actual time devoted to the work, but the law provides that members shall receive no compensation for not more than fifteen days in any one year unless there is extra work needed in effecting consolidation of schools in the county.

Each of the $500 is apportioned by the state to each county to provide for the expenses of the board, but the law did not carry an appropriation to cover salaries for the first year. The attorney general has not yet given an opinion as to whether any funds for this purpose may be obtained from some other state fund, the state paying the salary of the board members.

It has been suggested that the board should be elected for a term of half days for the three houses, but the question has been a factor in the reluctance with which candidates are making their appearance.

Has Important Powers.
The act gives the board the important powers relating to the management of the county school affairs and takes from the county supervisors practically their entire powers and duties with reference to the matters in the county superintendent's hands. The law requires that the school board shall submit an annual report to the supervisors which shall be published in the supervisors' report and remain on file in the county clerk's office.

The board will assume general management of the rural schools, with power to authorize the expenditure of money, fix the salary of the superintendent, do a certain amount of supervision generally by the school affairs of the county.

The new board has the power to consolidate school districts or organize new ones where the necessity exists to reduce or expand county expenditures without authority from the county board. The county board is compelled to pay the warrants issued by the board of education without question.

Do Not Relieve Districts.

The districts are still to retain their local organization and in no way will the county board of education take from their powers. With an advisory board deeply interested in the school matters of the county, however, those engaged in the work believe much good will result.

The county superintendent of schools will act as an advisory board to the board and all requisitions for expenditures and aid must be made to the new body.

The board is ordered by law to organize on the first Tuesday in May.

GERMANS LEAD LIST CITIZENSHIP CASES

Over One-Third of Men Securing Second Papers in County Yesterday Were Born in Germany.

Natives of Germany were far in the lead of other Europeans in securing citizenship in United States citizens yesterday. Thirty-one out of a total of seventy-five who secured their last papers were born in the German empire. Subjects of Great Britain, including English, Welsh, Scotch, Irish and Canadians, were next with a total of sixteen; there were eleven Norwegians; four Swedes; three Danes; four Russians; three Austrians; two Swiss and one Italian returned to Jefferson last evening and will not be in Janesville until next week Monday, the opening day of the March jury term.

The calendar will be called Monday afternoon and the jury will be on hand at the court room Tuesday morning at ten o'clock.

There were but two cases from Judge Grimm's circuit brought for decision at the last decision day, which was yesterday. They were Fred Hanter vs. Jacob Marty and other respondents, a Green county matter, and E. C. McGowan, appellant, vs. John Paul and others, respondents, from Rock county. In both of which the supreme court sustained Judge Grimm.

It is necessary that you attend either in person or by proxy. In case you cannot be present, kindly make out a proxy to some stockholder whom you know will attend and mail same to the secretary, who will deliver all proxies to the persons named therein.

ICE HARVEST ENDED; CROP IS IN HOUSES

Twelve Thousand Tons Have Been Stored Away for Use Next Summer—Both Houses Filled.

As though by special order the cold weather came, stayed just long enough for the ice men to get in their harvest, and then went away again. Last evening the men finished work on the two lower houses, after having gathered in approximately 12,000 tons of ice. This supply will take care of the demand next summer without the work being interrupted by a shortage of the harvest.

Enough to afford a second cutting for the lower houses and not too cold for the convenience of the workmen. The work required just ten and one-half days for the three houses, but started on Tuesday, February 10. During the entire time there were from fifty to a hundred men employed at cutting, floating and storing the ice.

The work has been a relief to the man is taken care of the weather again becomes mild and agreeable.

MISS FRANCES HILL TO RESIGN FRIDAY

High School Physical Training Instructor For Past Two Years, To Go To Hibbing, Minnesota Monday.

After spending two successful years as instructor in physical training at the Janesville high school, Miss Frances Hill, will leave sometime Saturday for Hibbing, Minnesota, where she will take up a similar position at the state normal school. She will take the position at the Minnesota school, left vacant by Miss Lucile Cuyler, who was physical training instructor at the local high school, predeceasing Miss Hill.

Miss Hill is a graduate of Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio, will continue with the work at the Janesville high school, starting Monday next. She comes to this city highly recommended by the Misses Cuyler and Hill are both graduates of the same institution in Ohio.

While in Janesville, Miss Hill has accomplished much in the physical training work and the girls who have had her as instructor during that time, regret that she is going. The pageant which Miss Hill presented to the city last June was of a high order. Her work at the school has been marked by the earnest attention on the part of the students, which is satisfying alone.

Last evening at six o'clock in the domestic science rooms of the high school, Miss Hill was given a farewell banquet by the members of the women's gymnasium class, who have been meeting on Wednesday nights under her instruction. A good number were present.

Start Spring Work: City officials have started plans for spring street improvement and are considering extensive pavement work. It is expected that in several cases the residents of the streets on which the improvement is to be made will be called in conference to decide on what course to take. The matter will be brought before the council at one of the early meetings.

CHEMICALS IN WATER BLEACHES WOMAN'S HAIR

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Cleveland, Feb. 26.—Cleveland's fair sex today are in a state of genuine alarm, not so say panic, rightly so, according to expert hair dressers. They are due to become bald within five years and all because of chemicals used in city water.

Starting changes already are declared to be noticeable since the use of the chemical, which water experts declare is imperative to the purity of the city water supply. Gray haired matrons are becoming blonde, women with brown hair find it turning to ashy, while burned hair women find their tresses becoming flaxen. The whole change is the preliminary stage of baldness, expert hair dressers declare. "I find no other excuse for the alarming conditions and the noticeable change in color than the water," declared Miss Schaefer, foremost of Cleveland's hair experts. A score of other experts concur.

A True Story.
A little girl whose mother was in the habit of singing to her when she went to bed was astonished one night to hear her ask her to sing, "Jesus save the ple for me." It was some time before the mother could understand that it was the hymn, "Jesus safely pilot me."

HOLD A RECEPTION FOR NEW MINISTER

Large Attendance at Function at Presbyterian Church on Wednesday Evening.

Korst, president of the trustees, was chairman of the evening. The speakers were the Reverends C. J. Roberts of the U. P. church, T. B. Williams of the M. E. church, J. C. Hazen of the Baptist church, S. T. Kidder of the Congregational church, C. Y. Love of the Rock Prairie church and the Rev. Parise of the Presbyterian church. The music of the evening was furnished by the church orchestra and solos were given by Miss Ada Lewis, Miss Lalla Soverhill, and Arthur School. Light refreshments were served during the evening and a general good time enjoyed by the members and their friends in welcoming their new pastor and his family to their new home.

ELLING LARSON IS CALLED BY DEATH

Old Resident of Cainville Center Passes to World Beyond at Eleven O'clock Last Night.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Cainville, Feb. 26.—Elling Larson, aged 63 and a resident of this place for many years, passed quietly away at eleven o'clock last evening at his home. He was born in Anlie, Norway, March 12th, 1851. He was married in 1873 to Christina Quam. They came to America in 1879, and came directly to Wisconsin, residing in Stoughton for many years. They later came to Rock county, in which vicinity they have ever after made their home.

The deceased leaves, besides a loving wife, five children. They are: Louis Larson of Madison; Mrs. Anna Streibach and Mrs. Sue Ward, both of Magnolia; Mrs. Louise Tattiguh of Spring Valley, and Mrs. Clara Wells of Plymouth. An aged mother and a sister reside in Stoughton, and a brother in the navy. Eleven grandchildren survive. Funeral notice will be given later.

The Evening Chit-Chat

HOW TO RECEIVE COMPLIMENTS.

"I ALMOST hate to have anyone give me a compliment," a reader friend writes me, "because it is so hard to receive compliments gracefully. I fancy there are a good many people who know just how this woman feels. For unless one is naturally skillful in the social amenities, a compliment, no matter how pleased one is to receive it, is an embarrassing thing. We sometimes find ourselves answering in a manner that makes us sound unbearably vain and self-satisfied even to our own startled ears. Again, in our anxiety to avoid this, we rush to the other extreme and speak so brusquely that we make the friend who tried to please us feel awkward and uncomfortable."

And in either case our pleasant memory of the commendation is tainted and spoiled by the uncomfortable recollection, which always accompanies that memory, of our own banality or rudeness in responding to the compliment.

"I do so enjoy your singing. You certainly have a beautiful voice," a nice old lady said to a young tenor after a concert in which he had sung.

"Yes, I like my voice," he answered, to the disgust of all about him. That is, all except the two or three who happened to know that that flat response was the result of a self-consciousness rather than of an overweening self-satisfaction as one would naturally think.

On the other hand I know an artist who received the compliments of a sincere admirer with such brusqueness that he drove away a much needed patron. And yet he was only trying not to sound feigningly self-satisfied.

It seems to me that the best way to receive a compliment has been given in good faith, is as simply and gratefully as possible. Say "thank you, it is good of you to say that," or, "Do you really think so?" How kind of you to tell me.

For it is kind of you to think of some nice things that we don't bother to say. When anyone takes the trouble to put his approval into gracious words, he deserves to be thanked.

You notice I say above "when a compliment has been given in good faith." Of course a good many compliments are merely intended as banter. "You say that very prettily, evidently it is a case of practice makes perfect with you," or some similar answer is the proper way to meet such compliments.

But don't make the mistake of discrediting a serious compliment by taking it as banter. That is ungracious. It is as if someone were offering you a beautiful jewel and you insisted on thinking it was paste.

A good rule for all difficult situations is, "do not concentrate your mind on yourself, think of the other fellow." To anyone who finds the receiving of compliments difficult and embarrassing, I recommend this rule.

Household Hint

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

If moths are in the carpet, spread a damp towel over the carpet and iron it with a hot iron. The heat and the steam will kill the worms and eggs.

When making a roll-polly pudding, after spreading the paste with the fruit, sprinkle a layer of fine bread crumbs before laying and rolling up. This prevents the jam from boiling out.

To use sour milk for griddle cakes, mix with baking powder but instead an even teaspoonful of baking soda to each cup of milk.

Lime powder well sprinkled where cockroaches abound will drive them away.

THE TABLE.

Fish Flaked—Take equal parts of cold flaked fish and cold boiled potatoes, finely chopped. Season with salt and pepper. Fry out in a pan, remove scraps, leaving enough fat in the pan to moisten the fish and potatoes. Put the fish and potatoes in a bowl, add a small amount of cold cream, mix well, and turn like an omelet.

Veal Loaf—Separate a piece of veal in pieces by sawing through the bone. Wipe, put in a kettle with one pound of lean veal and one onion, cover with boiling water and cook slowly until the veal is tender. Drain, chop the meat finely and season lightly with salt and pepper. Garnish the bottom of a mould with slices of hard-boiled eggs and parsley. Put in layer of meat, layer of thinly sliced hard-boiled eggs, sprinkle with finely chopped parsley and cover with the remaining meat. Pour over the liquor, which should be reduced to one cupful. Press and chill, turn on a dish and garnish with parsley.

Claret Punch—One quart of cold water, one-half cup of raisins, two cups of sugar, two-inch pieces of stick cinnamon, four shavings of lemon rind, one and one-third cups of orange juice, one-third cup of lemon juice, one pint of claret wine. Put the raisins in cold water, bring slowly to the boiling point and boil for twenty minutes; strain, add the sugar, cinnamon, lemon rind and boil five minutes. Add the fruit juice, cool, strain, pour in the claret and drink with ice.

Boiled Custard—Two cups of scalded milk, yolks of three eggs, one-quarter cup of sugar, one-eighth teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of vanilla. Beat the eggs slightly, add the sugar and salt; stir constantly while adding gradually the hot milk. Cook in a double boiler, continue stirring until the mixture is thick and a coating is formed on the spoon. Strain immediately; chill the custard. If cooked too long the custard will curdle. Should this happen, by using a dove egg beater, mix the custard with a small amount of milk, and the custard will not be as thick. Eggs should be beaten slightly for the custard, that it may be of smooth, thick consistency. To prevent curdling, strain from forming curdles, with a perforated tin. When eggs are scarce, use the yolks of two eggs and one-half tablespoonful of cornstarch.

to me. I get a letter every day. He wants me to get a divorce and marry him. He is a good man, makes eight dollars a day, and says he loves me and shows it in his letters. They are not slushy, but simple, sweet love letters. He says he will wait four years, until I am twenty years old.

MRS. A. By all means get a divorce from the man who deserted you. You are too young to be married, anyway. Wait a couple of years before marrying again, and meantime make yourself and sister and strong to a good man. You have suffered enough in your short life, but your future happiness will depend entirely upon yourself, my dear. Nobody is so unhappy as one who knows she has done wrong. If you have lived the right sort of life it takes away the bitter part of sorrow.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Will you please tell me how to clean a hair brush? READER.

Make a good suds of any good white soap and hot water. A little borax or baking soda may be added if the brush is very dirty. Dip the brush in this and swish up and down until it looks clean, then rinse it with clear water and set it on end where it will dry. Do not set it on its back and do not leave it in the hot water more than a very few minutes.

Another way to clean it is with kerosene. Dip the brush in the kerosene until it appears clean, then set up on end to dry out.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) We are three girls, eighteen, nineteen and twenty years of age. All of us associate with a boy friend of twenty-two, twenty-one and twenty-four years of age. Do you think they are too young? They are very respectable lads and our folks appreciate them as perfect gentlemen.

(2) Do you think it is respectable for us to go to dances and theaters with them?

(3) Is it proper for them to call us pet names if you do not pay attention to them?

(4) How late do you advise us to stay out?

(5) Is it proper to invite your boy friend to call at your home to take you out, for I think to meet a lad on corners is very unlady-like, don't you?

(6) We all have moles and people tell us moles have their meaning. Do you believe in moles—whether they have a meaning or not?

JOLLY THREE.

(1) The boys are not too young.

(2) I see no harm in it if you go to respectable places, with your parents' full knowledge and consent.

(3) They probably do it only in fun. But do not allow liberties that you know are not right, my dears.

Read the Gazette Want ads.

(3) I like to see girls at home at least by 10 p. m. You must get your beauty sleep before midnight, you know.

(5) The only proper way is for the young man to call for the girl at her home. Nice girls don't meet men on corners.

(6) It is a foolish superstition.

The Kitchen Cabinet

FAILURE is, in a sense, the highway to success, inasmuch as every discovery of what is false leads us to seek earnestly after what is true, and ever fresh experience points out some form of error which we shall afterward carefully avoid.

DISHES WORTH TRYING.

A new way of stuffing potatoes, is the following: Bake well shaped potatoes until soft, cut off a slice from the top, remove the potato and let stand in a hot bowl. While the potatoes are baking, cook together a quarter of a cupful each of carrot, celery and onion. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan and add the vegetables; add a spoonful of chopped parsley, beat an egg, add salt and mix together with the potato. Fill the cases with the vegetable, heaping them well; dot with a bit of butter and put into the oven to brown.

A nice sauce to serve as a gravy with these potatoes is prepared from the water in which the carrots and other vegetables were cooked. To a tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan add a tablespoonful of flour, then add a half cup of the liquor in which the vegetables were cooked and a half cup of rich milk. Season well and serve in a sauceboat.

Cheese Eclairs—Make a soufflé of three tablespoonfuls of melted butter and three of flour cooked together; add a half a teaspoonful of salt and the same of paprika; stir in a cupful and a fourth of milk, cook until smooth, add two well beaten yolks and a half cup of grated cheese. Stir until the cheese is melted, then fold in the beaten whites. Add a half cup of whipped cream and use this to fill eclairs made from the following recipe: Add half a cup of butter to one cupful of boiling water; sift in one cupful of pastry flour, a dash of paprika and a little salt. Stir and cook until the mixture leaves the sides of the pan, then add three un-beaten eggs, one at a time, beating well-between each egg; add a little grated cheese and place in strips three inches long on a baking sheet. Bake in a quick oven. Cut a slit in the side and remove the doughy center and fill with the cheese mixture.

Claret Punch—One quart of cold water, one-half cup of raisins, two cups of sugar, two-inch pieces of stick cinnamon, four shavings of lemon rind, one and one-third cups of orange juice, one-third cup of lemon juice, one pint of claret wine. Put the raisins in cold water, bring slowly to the boiling point and boil for twenty minutes; strain, add the sugar, cinnamon, lemon rind and boil five minutes. Add the fruit juice, cool, strain, pour in the claret and drink with ice.

Women Worth While

MRS. BIRD SEGLE MCGUIRE.

(By Selene Armstrong Harmon.)

Who will deny that the young wife of Representative Bird Segle McGuire of Oklahoma is a woman of parts?

Mrs. McGuire can start a day with a volume of Blackstone in one hand and a bridge score in the other, and before the twelve hours have rounded to a close she will have done full justice to both. In the mornings she turns her smart electric toward George Washington university, where she is taking a law course. In the afternoon she is seen speeding along some of Washington's fashionable thoroughfares on her way to a bridge party, a tea or, more likely still, a tea daunt, where all the latest dance steps are sure to be in favor.

Mrs. McGuire is not studying law with a view to entering actively into the practice of the profession, but she does intend to take the bar examination. If she ever did have occasion to play the role of Fortia, it goes without saying that she would win her case. No jury made up of mortal men could resist the way her Titan hair curls in little tendrils about her ears, the annual of her childlike blue eyes. When Alva Williams, president of the Royal Miniature society, a man who has painted many famous beauties on both sides of the Atlantic, was asked to name the eight most beautiful women in Washington he included Mrs. McGuire in the number. The others on the list were the Countess Von Bernstorff, wife of the German ambassador, Mrs. Peter Gottlet Gerry, the wife of Representative

Gerry of Rhode Island; Miss Genevieve Clark, daughter of Speaker and Mrs. Champ Clark; Madame Havenhill, wife of the Belgian minister; Madame Noon, wife of the minister from Argentina; Mrs. Paul S. Pearls, formerly Miss Martha Hichborn, and Miss Gladys Minckley, both belles of the capital's resident set.

Mrs. McGuire entered George Washington university as the result of a casual remark made one day by her husband. When in the course of one of their conversations, Mrs. McGuire was arguing woman-fashion in favor of the recall of the judiciary, her husband, a Republican and opposed to the progressive measure, replied that if she had ever read law she would understand the impracticability of the recall.

His wife's answer was to initiate herself at once into the mysteries of Blackstone and to take up the study of law at George Washington. Now she values the legal knowledge she has acquired chiefly because it enables her to understand more sympathetically the profession to which her husband belongs, and to understand better the public questions in which he is interested.

She has quite old-fashioned ideas as to the study of interests that should exist between husband and wife, and deprecates those ultra-modern marriages in which the tendency seems for men and women to drift from each other instead of to be more closely united. She accompanies her husband on his hunting and fishing expeditions and keeps in close and sympathetic touch with his political interests and ambitions, a compliment which he has returned by learning to dance with her the newest dances. They agree on everything except, perhaps, the recall of judges.

EVERYDAY TALKS FOR EVERYDAY PEOPLE

BY FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.

Do you think the average American woman realizes the honor and responsibility of the position she holds in one of the most important concerns in this great land of ours—the American home.

When a man asks a woman to be his wife he can bestow on her no greater honor. "Proof of this is daily given us by our young women who are keen after honors. Most of our young men realize the responsibilities of marriage and buckle right down to the prosaic but very necessary task of earning a living and making a home for the one woman in the world for them; the woman who is their heart's desire, their dream of home; the woman they want for the mother of their children.

A man rises in the early morn, often before the dawn of day, and fares forth to put his shoulder to the wheel in the game of life, where no quarter is asked or given. He must make good or his place will speedily be taken by another, for no matter where in life we stand there is competition; competition that for the most is exacting, keen and merciless. Living in this atmosphere daily is wearing on one's body and soul. When the sun sinks down in the golden west and a man turns his face towards home, he has the right to expect a clean, tidy home and a warm welcome. It means a great deal to a man the manner of a home he comes to at the close of day, the place he has toiled all day to maintain.

There is nothing this side of the grave that is more encouraging, more satisfying to a weary man than the unclouded welcome of a good, true wife. We can all slip under the rope and stand with the band of women who lay claim to the title of "good, true wife," but how about the "unclouded welcome" part of it? The throng seems to dwindle!

Well! How can we welcome John from his daily toil when little Sammy came home from school with the waist he had worn but half a day all soiled with his eyes beautiful and blue from fighting with that horrid hue next door? The fact that dear little Sammy has a way that the most long-suffering cannot help but resent at times is a fact that we stoutly refuse to believe. Our own son peevish? We guess not.

How can we welcome John with a smiling face when the grocer's boy trading our floor just after we had finished cleaning it? John must know about the very important things that happen in his absence. Why not? Did he not marry us to protect us, to shield us? Then by all means we should make his supper hour miserable by insinuating that (were he the right sort of a man) he would go out and put the grocer's boy, the little wretch next door, any other members of their families who dared to interfere, in the hospital.

Guilty? Entirely free from this petty form of nagging? One of the women who each day, every day give their husbands at the close of day an unclouded welcome? We want to meet you please.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl aged sixteen. I have to make my own living and two years ago I started on my way to ruin. Last July I was married and inside of a week my husband left me. I went to another city to begin again and made a pretty fair living, as I got $10 a week. But my mother and sister and brothers all refuse even to write to me and I almost went crazy as I had been my father's favorite and was loved by him.

In a month or two I got so discouraged I did not know what to do, and in a crazy moment tried to kill myself. But before that I met a young man, merely by accident. From the moment I saw him I loved him, but never supposed that he cared for me. When I was in the hospital he came and brought me a nice bouquet, and the doctors did not think I would live. This man sat by my bedside and when they said he had no hopes for me he cried until he had to go home. He found that I was married. Don't think that I tried to deceive him. I told him I was married, but he did not believe me. When he found out for sure he went away and said he would write to me, but they were just friendly letters.

When I came out of the hospital I came back home and now he writes to me. I get a letter every day. He wants me to get a divorce and marry him. He is a good man, makes eight dollars a day, and says he loves me and shows it in his letters. They are not slushy, but simple, sweet love letters. He says he will wait four years, until I am twenty years old.

MRS. A. By all means get a divorce from the man who deserted you. You are too young to be married, anyway. Wait a couple of years before marrying again, and meantime make yourself and sister and strong to a good man. You have suffered enough in your short life, but your future happiness will depend entirely upon yourself, my dear. Nobody is so unhappy as one who knows she has done wrong. If you have lived the right sort of life it takes away the bitter part of sorrow.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Will you please tell me how to clean a hair brush? READER.

Make a good suds of any good white soap and hot water. A little borax or baking soda may be added if the brush is very dirty. Dip the brush in this and swish up and down until it looks clean, then rinse it with clear water and set it on end where it will dry. Do not set it on its back and do not leave it in the hot water more than a very few minutes.

Another way to clean it is with kerosene. Dip the brush in the kerosene until it appears clean, then set up on end to dry out.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) We are three girls, eighteen, nineteen and twenty years of age. All of us associate with a boy friend of twenty-two, twenty-one and twenty-four years of age. Do you think they are too young? They are very respectable lads and our folks appreciate them as perfect gentlemen.

(2) Do you think it is respectable for us to go to dances and theaters with them?

(3) Is it proper for them to call us pet names if you do not pay attention to them?

(4) How late do you advise us to stay out?

(5) Is it proper to invite your boy friend to call at your home to take you out, for I think to meet a lad on corners is very unlady-like, don't you?

(6) We all have moles and people tell us moles have their meaning. Do you believe in moles—whether they have a meaning or not?

JOLLY THREE.

(1) The boys are not too young.

(2) I see no harm in it if you go to respectable places, with your parents' full knowledge and consent.

(3) They probably do it only in fun. But do not allow liberties that you know are not right, my dears.

SHERIDAN'S COMEDY READ BY STUDENTS

Milton College Library Club Members Handle Famous Play, "The Rivals," in Fine Shape.

Milton, Feb. 25.—"A circulating library in a town is an evergreen tree of diabolical knowledge." At least this is what Sir Anthony Absolute stoutly maintains. And who would dare cross Sir Anthony? The least contradiction would throw that gentleman into a perfect frenzy. Surely no one who heard President Deane read the part last Tuesday night would venture to thwart the slightest wish of Sir Anthony. I now shall try to give you "the perpendiculars," as Mrs. Malaprop would say, of this entertainment. The Milton College Library and the English Club, with the help of the library commission, read "The Rivals" by Sheridan Tuesday evening in the chapel. Both actors and audience were in a strange path, and by "oddists and links," how Mrs. Malaprop did improve the English language. Miss Mary Carpenter of the library section, assistant Lydia Languish, recommended to us many interesting novels. If you have not read "The Sentimental Journey," "The Delicate Distress," or "The Mistakes of the Heart," rest no longer in slothful ignorance. This duel was in every way as bloodless and as safe as a duel as heart could desire. Brave Sir Lucius O'Trigger thrilled us with admiration. However, Sir Lucius is the better part of valor and we quite agree with the prudent David that if no gentleman will ever risk the loss of his honor, it is but civil in honor never to risk the loss of the gentleman. Miss Hazeltine, the victor of the library school at Madison, was stake manager. Through her care the asbestos curtain never failed to descend at the proper moment.

The audience thoroughly enjoyed the play. In intense excitement small boys in utter abandon threw their caps across the aisles. As Ben Jonson says of his own plays, "This was a play such as others should be."

CENTER

Center, Feb. 22.—On Feb. 21, 1914, at 8 o'clock in the evening, at the spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Barton, occurred the marriage of their eldest daughter, Miss Emily, to James Alice, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Adeo of West Center. To the beautiful strains, the ever popular Lohengrin wedding march, played by Miss Ethel Shaw of Beloit, cousin of the bride, the bridal party ascended the stairs and took their places in the bar window of the sitting room, which was appropriately decorated in white and green, where the Rev. Drow of Footville performed the ceremony in an impressive manner in the presence of about eighty relatives and intimate friends. The bride "was tastefully dressed in a dainty gown of white chiffon over silk, with a draped skirt caught up with pink rose buds, and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Edna Schroder, of Janesville, was also veiled in white shadow lace over silk, and carried pink carnations. The groom was attended by his brother, William Adeo, Jr. After hearty congratulations, a two course wedding supper was heartily served by the caterer, Mrs. Quirk of Janesville, assisted by Mrs. W. C. Stevens and six young lady friends of the bride. Among the guests present were Mr. and Mrs. A. Spoon, Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Antisdel, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Gransee and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wiggins and Miss Schroder of Janesville; Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Sear and daughter, Ethel of Beloit, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Silverthorn of Evansville, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Honkins and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith of Oregon, John Adeo and wife of Edgerton, and Miss Rose Harrison of Whitewater. They were the recipients of many beautiful pieces of cut glass and silver, besides many other nice and useful presents, testifying to the love and esteem that the bride and groom are held by their friends. They will reside in West Center, where they will welcome their friends after April 1.

The box seat at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Fisher last Tuesday night was largely attended and a nice sum of money raised for the benefit of the Christian church of Janesville. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fuller are on the sick list with severe colds. Laben Fisher of Janesville was a recent visitor at the home of his nephew, J. H. Fisher. Quite a number from Center attended the farmers' institute at Footville last week.

BRODHEAD

Brodhead, Feb. 25.—Jesse Miller had business in Janesville Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Perry were passengers to Chicago Tuesday morning. M. L. Karney was in Monroe Tuesday on business matters. George Luchsinger went to Brothton Tuesday, where he is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Lintz. Homer Hall and son Lee spent Tuesday in Monroe. L. I. Fairman went to Orangeville Tuesday, called there on a business deal. Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Fleek of Libbey, Mo., are guests of Dr. J. L. Fleek and family. Mrs. H. B. Kildow and little son returned Tuesday to Milwaukee after spending a few days with Postmaster A. B. Kildow and family. Mrs. S. Stray was called to Watseka, Ill., Tuesday by the serious illness of a sister. Mrs. William Schleim returned Tuesday to her home in Sioux Falls, S. D., after spending two weeks with her sister, Mrs. E. E. Fleek. Mrs. Agnes Scheuk of McKenna, Wis., was the guest of her mother and sister, Mrs. Amerpohl and Mrs. M. Schenpp. Miss A. G. McCusker has returned from a stay of several weeks in the west. Mrs. A. G. B. Fleek died at her home in Brodhead on Tuesday. Funeral Friday afternoon from the home.

LIMA

Lima, Feb. 25.—Miss Addie Smith of Chicago is visiting her cousin, Mrs. Belle Collins. Mrs. Mina Bullock of Janesville has been spending the past week with friends here. F. W. Persons attended a mail carriers' convention in Janesville Monday. The moving is still going on. Orta Gould spent Monday in Janesville and Milton. Hazel Hunt is out of school this week on account of illness. Miss Della Bowers was home from Madison for the Washington holiday. Messrs. Millard, Reese, Nichols, Sturtevant and Behlman were Milwaukee visitors Sunday. Bob Nichols was given a farewell surprise on Wednesday evening. He leaves on March 1 to assume duties in another of the Caldwell & Gates lumber yards, Carl Anderson relieving him here.

MAGNOLIA CENTER

Magnolia Center, Feb. 24.—A large crowd of friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chase and family, at their home Friday evening. All present report a very enjoyable evening. Mr. and Mrs. M. Harper, entertained a crowd of young people at their home Saturday evening. Games furnished the evening's entertainment. At a late hour dainty refreshments were served. Those present report a very pleasant evening. Mr. and Mrs. Gerrung and family moved to Kansas, the past week. Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Setzer, took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. A. Cole, of Evansville, Friday. Miss Hattie Harnack, who has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louie Woodstock, returned home Friday. John Albright, of Albany, was an over Sunday visitor at George Bishop's.

COOKSVILLE

Cooksville, Feb. 23.—The Porters filled both of their ice houses last week with a very fine grade of ice. Mr. and Mrs. Will Porter are expected back to their home here this week. They have been spending the past two months on the farm with their sons. All the tobacco is stripped and sold and mostly delivered. Eighteen loads went through the village last week to Evansville and Edgerton. The Ladies Aid met this week Wednesday for dinner with Mrs. Blanche Tolles. Charles Miller and wife gave a dance last Thursday evening, which was largely attended. All had a fine time and dance until 8 in the morning. Jack Robertson and Mr. Busby furnished the inspiring music. The Erickson family are at home this week for a reunion. Anna, and husband are here from Rockford. Laura is here from Minneapolis, and Inga from Soughton, where she is attending school. It has been a number of years since they were all together, eleven in all. The many friends of Mrs. E. W. Love are sorry to know of her poor health. She had a shock a while ago but is gaining slowly. Miss Belle Rice is better again, but her old enemy, asthma, is troubling her some. She expects to go to Janesville soon for a few weeks' visit with friends. Sunday was a wild day; but one team went by; cold, blowing and drifting. Mrs. Hattie Porter spent Wednesday afternoon calling on friends in the village.

BROOKLYN

Brooklyn, Feb. 25.—Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Baldwin entertained about twenty-five friends at a 6:30 o'clock dinner Thursday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Curless and his daughter, spent Sunday with relatives in Evansville. Frank Yarwood of Madison spent Thursday in town. The Epworth League social held at the M. E. church Saturday evening was a financial success. The amount taken in was fifteen dollars. An interesting program was rendered and refreshments were served. There was no school Monday on account of one of the pipes of the heating apparatus having burst. Bryant Anderson has been ill with chicken pox. John White of Knoxville, Pa., has been visiting a tunc home of his father, G. E. Waite. Miss Lou Howland of Evansville was an over Sunday visitor at the home of her friend, Miss Ethel Winter. Rev. E. C. Dixon, district superintendent of Madison district, occupied the pulpit at the M. E. church Sunday evening and conducted the quarterly conference Monday forenoon. Frank Powell of Madison spent Sunday at the A. G. Gillies home. Mr. R. M. Ames returned Saturday from Fond du Lac, where she had been visiting her daughter, Miss Sadie Ames, who has been ill, but is improving.

Throw Away Your Eye-Glasses!

A Free Prescription

You Can Have Filled and Use at Home

Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye-strain or other eye-weaknesses? If so, you will be glad to know that there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing, say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says, after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Optona. Fill a two ounce bottle with warm water, drop in one Optona tablet and allow to dissolve. With this liquid, bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time. Advertisement.

MILTON JUNCTION

Milton, Feb. 25.—Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Burton are entertaining their nephew, Mr. Whitley, of Indiana. P. H. Hickey was a business caller at Janesville yesterday. The Royal Neighbors met last night at their rooms. A dainty luncheon was served by a committee. Mrs. Ed. Shuman of Janesville has been visiting her uncle, Alex Shuman and family. Mrs. Walter Crandall and Miss Verna Palmer were Janesville shoppers yesterday. Miss Lois Morris spent Tuesday evening with Janesville relatives.

JUDA

Juda, Feb. 25.—Otis Anderick, who is learning the automobile trade in Chicago, was home visiting his family and other relatives the latter part of last week. J. Crippen and family moved Tuesday in Parken Newman's house, recently occupied by Matthew West and family. Miss Vera Atkinson, who has been very sick the past week, is able to be out.

EDGERTON

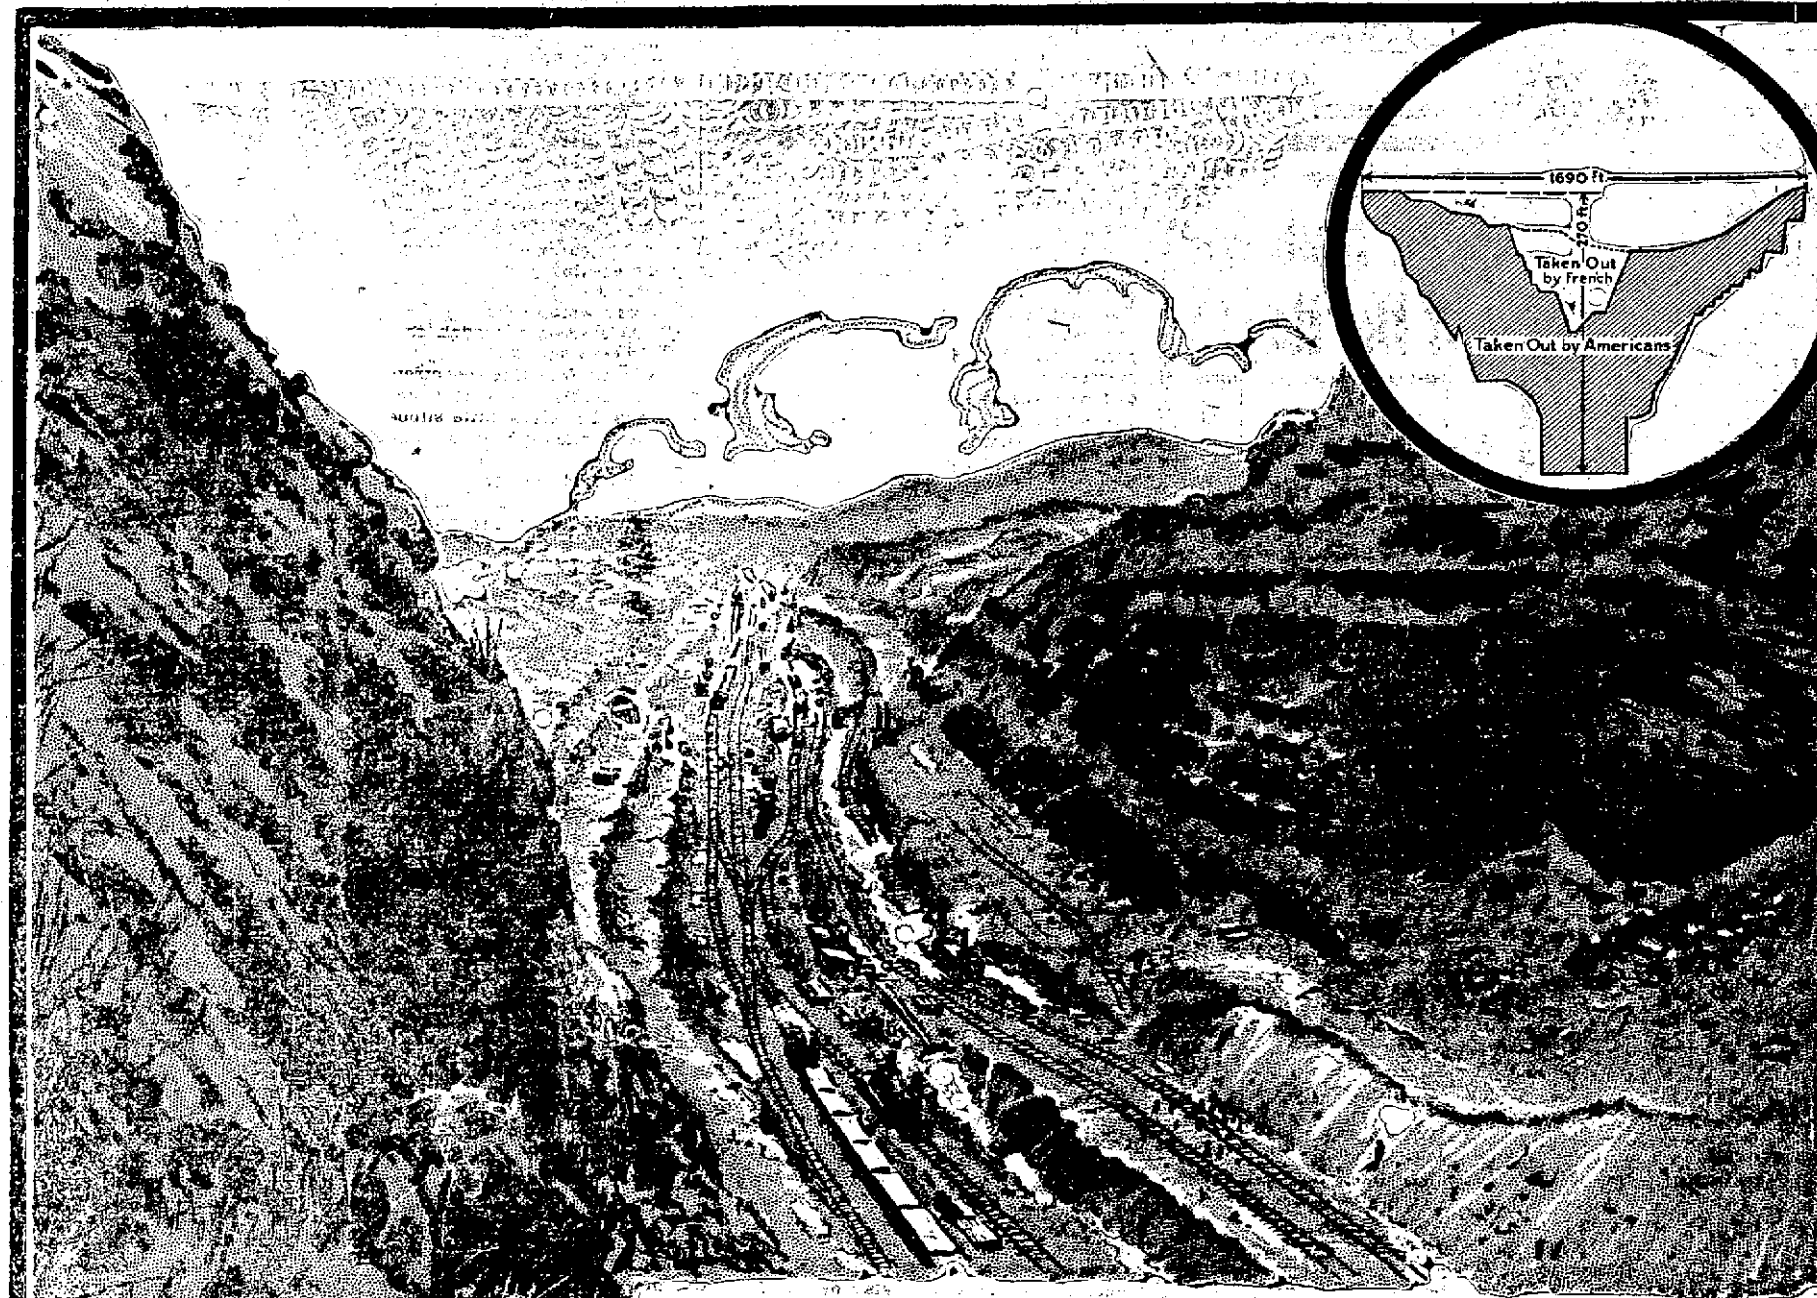

Edgerton, Feb. 25.—Mesdames Cleary and Atwell entertained six tables at bridge yesterday afternoon at the home of the former. The house and tables were beautifully decorated with daffodils. Mrs. Henry Johnson received first prize, Mrs. T. A. Clarke receiving the consolation. Mrs. Kanaugh of New Orleans received the guest of honor prize. Tom Madden of Sun River, Mont., is here for a short visit with relatives. Elmer Voight spent yesterday in Janesville. There were thirteen tables played last evening at the card party at the T. A. and B. hall. Mrs. John Madden and Fred Sherman captured the first prizes, and Miss Edith Whelan received the consolation.

GIRLS! CLEAN AND BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR NO MORE DANDRUFF—25 CENT DANDERINE

Try this! Makes hair soft, glossy, fluffy, abundant—Stop washing the hair with soap.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff, invigorates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful. You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

Culebra Cut

The thirsting for a fight with the odds all stacked against them was the lure that led the Americans into the greatest battle with Nature the world has ever seen.

The event slated was the breaking of a Continent's backbone. The prize offered—Culebra Cut.

It was a fight to the finish.

On one hand stood a grim mountain range, its face covered with the dense tangle of the Tropics, its feet imbedded in the steaming, stinking jungle—a place no white man had a right to be; a place so hot and poisonous that it might well be called the borderland of Hell.

Against this barrier of the ages marched your Army Engineers with their science, your gang bosses with their courage, and the faithful negro workers with their brawn.

They tackled that mountain with their steam shovels, they bored into its sides with their pneumatic drills, they shot it up with tons of dynamite, they went at it with bare hands.

The mountain fought back with infernal spite. It hurled down everything, from great boulders to giant land-slides.

Over night it would drop a 40 acre lot into the cut, burying cars, tracks and shovels three weeks deep.

Not once but 26 times did the mountain "backfire" with Nature's weapons of rock and rubble.

And this in a land of torrential rains and withering heat—where the fighters were alternately roasted, drenched and parboiled.

For seven years this savage, upstanding fight between man and the mountain went on.

Then slowly and inevitably the mountain gave way to the "I will" of human purpose.

Today a man-made nine-mile canyon is the trophy of that conflict. On its peaceful waters the commerce of the world is quickly shifted from ocean to ocean.

And it is this awful and majestic chasm which will stand for eternity as a monument to American love for a fight to the finish.

It is the "mightiest deed the hand of man has done."

SPECIAL!

JOHN BIMKINS.

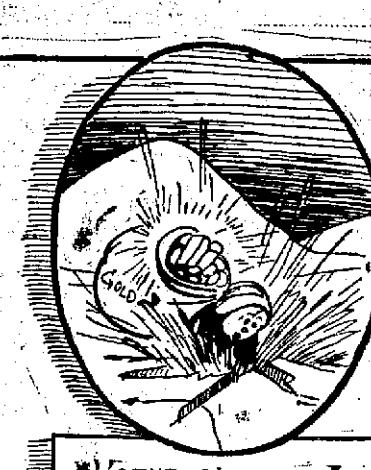

THROUGH THE BRILLIANT WORK OF OUR CLEVER STAFF WRITER, A CUBS, WE CAN EXCLUSIVELY ANNOUNCE THAT JOHN BIMKINS, HUSBAND OF GRACE, DAUGHTER OF OUR FAMOUS FELLOW CITIZEN, OSWALD VAN LOON, KICKED THE BUCKET IN ALASKA, WHERE, THIS BRAVE, ENTERPRISING, CALLANT, NOBLE, AND HANDSOME YOUTH WENT IN SEARCH OF WEALTH.

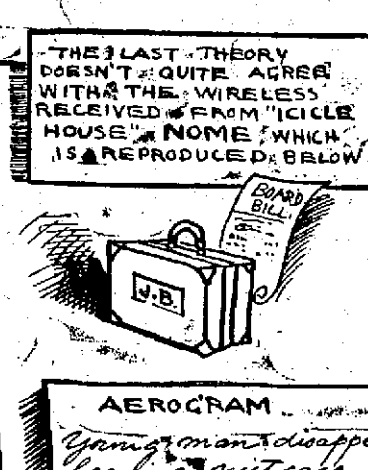

ONE THEORY IS THAT WHILE THE HEROIC EX-COLLECTOR WAS ATTEMPTING TO RESCUE A CHILD FROM A BURNING BUILDING, BY JUMPING THE FIREMAN, A STREAM OF FLAMES, AS THE WATER LEFT THE NOZZLE, IT FREEZE, FORMING A GIANT ICE, ON WHICH HE WAS IMPALED.

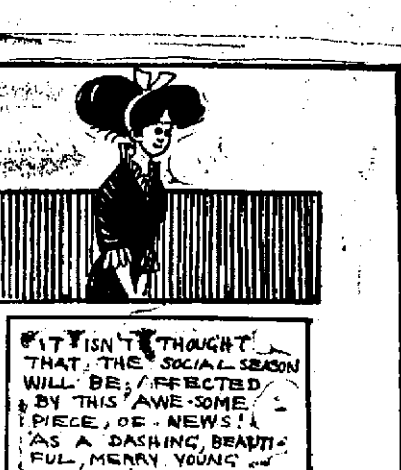

ANOTHER THEORY, THOUGHT PROBABLE BY MANY, IS THAT BIMKINS STARTED AN ICE CREAM PARLOR IN SKAGWAY AND STARVED TO DEATH.

OTHERS BELIEVE THAT BIMKINS, AFTER AMASSING A FORTUNE IN GOLD NUGGETS, STARTED FOR HOME. THE WEIGHT OF THE GOLD WAS SO IMMENSE THAT IT BROKE THE ICE AS HE WAS CROSSING THE BAY AND CARRIED HIM DOWN IN THE CHILLY OCEAN.

THE LAST THEORY DOESN'T QUITE AGREE WITH THE WIRELESS RECEIVED FROM "ICE CREAM HOUSE," NAME, WHICH IS REPRODUCED BELOW.

IT ISN'T THOUGHT THAT THE SOCIAL SEASON WILL BE AFFECTED BY THIS AWE-SOME PIECE OF NEWS. AS A DASHING, BEAUTIFUL, MERRY YOUNG WOMAN, GRACE VAN LOON BIMKINS SHOULD BE JAIL TO THE GOODS.

That Jar of MUSTEROLE On the Bath-Room Shelf

It's relieved pain for nearly everyone in the family. When little Susie had the croup, when Johnny got his feet wet and caught cold, when father sprained his knee, when Granny's rheumatism bothered her.

MUSTEROLE is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. It will not blister like a mustard plaster. Quick relief for Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Tonsillitis, Croup, Sore Neck, Asthma, Neuralgia, Headache, Congestion, Pleurisy, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Pains and Aches of the Back or Joints, Sprains, Sore Muscles, Bruises, Chilblains, Frost-bitten Feet, Colds on the Chest (it prevents Pneumonia). Nothing like MUSTEROLE for croupy children.

In 25c and 50c jars, and a special large hospital size for $2.50. Accept no substitute. If your druggist cannot supply you, send 25c or 50c to the MUSTEROLE Company, Cleveland, Ohio, and we will mail you a jar, postage prepaid. (60) S. J. Buchanan, Lowellville, Ohio, says: "I have been using Musterole for two or three years past and find it very good. It is always in our medicine cupboard."

To Keep Out Moths. People who dislike the odor of moth balls should know that bags of dried tansy placed among the woolen garments will answer every purpose of keeping out moths, and with none of the disagreeable odor which is sure to tell the story of moth balls. Make small bags of thin white muslin and fill them with the dried crushed leaves and sew up. Place half a dozen of these in the packing box and the moths will vanish.

The Hollow of Her Hand

He was silent for a few minutes, studying her face and figure with the critical eye of the artist. As he turned to the canvas with his crayon point, he remarked, with an unmistakable note of relief in his voice:

"That explains everything. It must have been Hetty Glynn who posed for all those things of Hawkright's."

"I dare say," said she indifferently.

CHAPTER IX.

The Ghost at the Feast. The next day he appeared bright and early with his copy of the Studio. "There," he said, holding it before her eyes. She took it from his hand and stared long and earnestly at the reproduction. "Do you think it like me?" she inquired innocently. "Amazingly like you," he declared with conviction. She turned the page. He was watching her closely. As she looked upon the sketches of the half-nude figure a warm blush covered her face and neck. She did not speak for a full minute, and he was positive that her

He Was Watching Her Closely. fingers tightened their grasp on the magazine.

"The same model," he said quietly. She nodded her head.

"Hetty Glynn, I am sure," she said, after a pause, without lifting her eyes. Her voice was low, the words not very distinct.

He drew a long breath, and she looked up quickly. What he saw in her honest blue eyes convicted her.

Sara Wendall came into the room at that moment. Hetty hastily closed the magazine and held it behind her.

Booth had intended to show the reproduction to Mrs. Wendall, but the girl's behavior caused him to change his mind. He felt that he possessed a secret that could not be shared with Sara Wendall, then or afterward.

Moreover, he decided that he would not refer to the Hawkright pictures again unless the girl herself brought up the subject. All this flashed through his mind as he stepped forward to greet the newcomer.

When he turned again to Hetty, the magazine had disappeared. He never saw it afterward, and what is more to the point, he never asked her to produce it.

He thought hard over the situation. The obvious solution came to him: She had been at one time reduced to the necessity of posing, a circumstance evidently known to but few and least of all to Sara Wendall, from whom the girl plainly meant to keep the truth. This conviction distressed him, but not in the way that might have been expected. He had no scruples about sharing the secret or in keeping it inviolate; his real distress lay in the fear that Mrs. Wendall might hear of all this from other and perhaps ungentle sources. As for her posing for Hawkright, it meant little or nothing to him. In his own experience, two girls of gentle birth had served as models for pictures of his own making, and he fully appreciated the exigencies that had driven them to it. One had posed in the "altogether." She was a girl of absolutely irreproachable character, who afterward married a chap he knew very well, and who was fully aware of that short phase in her life. That feature of the situation meant nothing to him. He was in no doubt concerning Hetty. She was what she appeared to be: A gentlewoman.

He admitted to himself that he was under the spell of her. It was not love, he was able to contend; but it was a mysterious appeal to something within him that had never revealed itself before. He couldn't quite explain what it was.

In his solitary hours at the cottage on the upper road, he was wont to take his friend Leslie Wendall into consideration. As a friend, was it not his duty to go to him with his sordid little tale? Was it right to let Wendall go on with his wooing when there existed that which might make all the difference in the world to him? He invariably brought these deliberations to a close by relaxing into a grim smile of amusement, as much as to say:

"Serve him right, anyway. Trust him to sift her antecedents thoroughly. He's already done it, and he is quite satisfied with the result. Serve them all right, for that matter."

But then there was Hetty Glynn. What of her? Hetty Glynn, real or mythical, was a disturbing factor in his deductions. If there was a real Hetty Glynn and she was Hetty Castleton's double, what then?

On the fifth day of a series of rather prolonged and tedious sittings, he was obliged to confine his work to an hour and a half in the forenoon. Mrs. Wendall was having a few friends in for a luncheon-bridge immediately after lunch.

She asked him to stay over and take a hand, but he declined. He did not play bridge.

Leslie was coming out on an evening train. Booth, in commenting on this, again remarked a sharp change in Hetty's manner. They had been conversing somewhat buoyantly up to the moment he mentioned Leslie's impending visit. In a flash her manner changed. A quick but unmistakable frown succeeded her smiles, and for some reason she suddenly relapsed into a state of reserve that was little short of sullen. He was puzzled, as he had been before.

The day was hot. Sara volunteered to take him home in the motor. An errand in the village was the excuse she gave for riding over with him. Heretofore she had sent him over alone with the chauffeur.

She looked very handsome, very tempting, as she came down to the car.

"By Jove," he said to himself, "she is wonderful!"

He handed her into the car with the grace of a courtier, and she smiled upon him serenely, as a princess might have smiled in the days when knight-hood was in flower.

When she sat him down at his little garden gate, he put the question that had been seething in his mind all the way down the shady stretch they had traversed.

"Have you ever seen Hetty Glynn, the English actress?"

Sara was always prepared. She knew the question would come when least expected.

"Oh, yes," she replied, with interest. "Have you noticed the resemblance? They are as like as two peas in a pod. Isn't it extraordinary?"

He was a bit staggered. "I have never seen Hetty Glynn," he replied.

"Oh? You have seen photographs of her?" she inquired casually.

"What has become of her?" he asked, ignoring her question. "Is she still on the stage?"

"Heaven knows," she replied lightly. "Miss Castleton and I were speaking of her last night. We were together the last time I saw her. Who knows? She may have married into the nobility by this time. She was a very poor actress, but the loveliest thing in the world—excepting our Hetty, of course."

If he could have seen the troubled look in her eyes as she was whirled off to the village, he might not have gone about the cottage with such a blithesome air. He was happier than he had been in days, and all because of Hetty Glynn!

Leslie Wendall did not arrive by the evening train. He telephoned late in the afternoon, not to Hetty but to Sara, to say that he was unavoidably detained and would not leave New York until the next morning. Something in his voice, in his manner of speaking, disturbed her. She went to bed that night with two sources of uneasiness threatening her peace of mind. She scented peril.

The motor met him at the station and Sara was waiting for him in the cool, awning-covered veranda as he drove up. There was a sullen, disaffected look in his face. She was stretched out comfortably, lazily, in a great chaise-loungue, her black little slippers peeping out at him with perfect abandonment.

"Hello," he said shortly. She gave him her hand. "Sorry I couldn't get out last night." He shook her hand rather ungraciously.

"We missed you," she said. "Pull up a chair. I was never so lazy as now. Dear me, I am afraid I'll get stout and gross."

"Spring fever," he announced. He was plainly out of sorts. "I'll stand, if you don't mind. Beautifully tiresome, sitting in a hot, stuffy train."

He took a couple of turns across the porch, his eyes shifting in the eager, annoyed manner of one who seeks for something that, in the correct order of things, ought to be plainly visible.

"Please sit down, Leslie. You make me nervous, tramping about like that. We can't go in for half an hour or more."

"Can't go in?" he demanded, stopping before her. He began to pull at his little moustache.

"No," Hetty's posing. They won't permit even me to disturb them."

He glared. With a final, almost dramatic twist he gave over jerking at his moustache, and grabbed up a chair, which he put down beside her with a vehemence that spoke plainer than words.

"I say," he began, scowling in the direction of the doorway, "how long is he going to be at this silly job?"

"Silly job? Why, it is to be a masterpiece," she cried.

"I asked you how long?"

"Oh, how can I tell? Weeks, perhaps. One can't prod a genius."

"It's all tummy-rot," he growled. "I suppose I'd better take the next train back to town."

"Don't you like talking with me?" she inquired, with a pout.

"Of course I do," he made haste to say. "But do you mean to say they won't let anybody in where—Oh, I say! This is rich!"

"Spectators upset the muse, or words to that effect."

He stared gloomily at his cigarette case for a moment. Then he carefully selected a cigarette and tapped it on the back of his hand.

"See here, Sara, I'm going to get this off my chest," he said bluntly. "I've been thinking it over all week. I don't like this portrait painting nonsense."

"Dear me! Didn't you suggest it?" she inquired innocently, but all the time her heart was beating violent time to the song of triumph.

He was jealous. It was what she wanted, what she had hoped for all along. Her purpose now was to encourage the ugly flame that tortured him, to fan it into fury, to make it unendurable. She knew him well: His supreme egoism could not withstand an attack upon its complacency. Like all the Wendalls, he had the habit of thinking too well of himself. He possessed a clearly-defined sense of humor, but it did not begin to include self-sacrifice among its endowments. He had never been able to laugh at himself for the excellent reason that some things were truly sacred to him. She realized this, and promptly laughed at him. He stiffened.

"Don't snicker, Sara," he growled. He took time to light his cigarette, and at the same time to consider his answer to her question. "In a way, yes. I suggested a sort of portrait, of course. A sketchy thing, something like that, you know. But not an all-summer operation."

"But she doesn't mind," explained Sara. "In fact, she is enjoying it. She and Mr. Booth get on famously together."

"She likes him, eh?" "Certainly. Why shouldn't she like him? He is adorable."

"I'm sorry, Leslie. I suppose you will have to give in, however. We are three to one against you—Hetty, Mr. Booth, and I."

"I see," he said, rather blankly. Then he drew his chair closer. "See here, Sara, you know I'm terribly keen about her. I think about her, I dream about her, I—oh, well, here it is in a nutshell: I'm in love with her. Now do you understand?"

"I don't see how you could help being in love with her," she said calmly. "I believe it is a habit men have where she is concerned."

"You're not surprised?" he cried, himself surprised.

"Not in the least."

"I mean to ask her to marry me," he announced with finality. This was intended to bow her over completely. She looked at him for an instant, and then shook her head. "I'd like to be able to wish you good luck."

He stared. "You don't mean to say she'd be fool enough—" he began incredulously, but caught himself up in time. "Of course, I'd have to take my chances," he concluded, with more humility than she had ever seen him display. "Do you know of any one else?"

"No," she said seriously. "She doesn't confide in me to that extent, I fear. I've never asked."

"Do you think there was any one back there in England?" He put it in the past tense, so to speak, as if there could be no question about the present.

"Oh, I dare say."

He was regaining his complacency. "That's neither here nor there," he declared. The thing I want you to do, Sara, is to rush this confounded portrait. I don't like the idea, not a little bit."

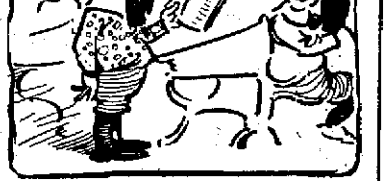

"I don't blame you for being afraid of the attractive Mr. Booth," she said, with a significant lifting of her eyebrows.

"I'm going to have it over with before I go up to town, my dear girl," he announced, in a matter-of-fact way. "I've given the whole situation a deuce of a lot of thought, and I've made up my mind to do it. I'm not the sort, you know, to delay matters once my mind's made up. By Jove, Sara, you ought to be pleased. I'm not such a rotten catch, if I do say it who shouldn't."

How to Make Better Cough Syrup than You Can Buy

A Family Supply, Saving 50 and Fully Guaranteed.

A full pint of cough syrup—as much as you could buy for $2.50—can easily be made at home. You will find nothing that takes hold of the ordinary cough more quickly, usually conquering it inside of 24 hours. Excellent, too, for spasmodic croup, whooping cough, bronchial asthma and bronchitis.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 15 pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, then add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

This is just laxative enough to help relieve a cough. Also stimulates the appetite, which is usually upset by a cough. The taste is pleasant.

The effect of pine and sugar syrup on the inflamed membranes is well known. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in quinine and other natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this combination.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup remedy has often been imitated, but the old successful mixture has never been equaled. It is now used in more homes than any other cough remedy.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Bar-a-a-a—"The word was new to him. "Barque," supplied the teacher. Still Willie hesitated. "Barque!" repeated the teacher, this time was sharply.

Willie looked as though he had not heard aright. Then with an apprehensive glance around the class, he shouted: "Bow-wow!"

He was very rich, a millionaire in fact. He was also a church member. But he did not approve of foreign missions. One Sunday at church, when the collection was being taken up for these missions, the collector approached the millionaire and held out the collection bag. The millionaire shook his head.

"I never give to missions," he whispered. "Then, take something out of the bag, sir," whispered the collector. "The money is for the heathen."

Sick Women Attention

Is it possible there is a woman in this country who continues to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial after all the evidence that is continually being published, which proves beyond contradiction that this grand old medicine has relieved more suffering among women than any other one medicine in the world?

We have published in the newspapers of the United States more genuine testimonial letters than have ever been published in the interest of any other medicine for women—and every year we publish many new testimonials, all genuine and true. Here are three never before published:

From Mrs. S. T. Richmond, Providence, R. I.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—"For the benefit of women who suffer as I have done I wish to state what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I did some heavy lifting, and the doctor said it caused a displacement. I have always been weak and overworked after my baby was born and inflammation set in, then nervous prostration, from which I did not recover until I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The Compound is my best friend and when I hear of a woman with troubles like mine I try to induce her to take your medicine."—Mrs. S. T. RICHMOND, 199 Waldo Street, Providence, R. I.

A Minister's Wife Writes: CLOQUET, MINN.—"I have suffered very much with irregularities, pain and inflammation, but your wonderful medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, has made me well and I can recommend the same to all that are troubled with these complaints."—Mrs. JENKIE AKERMAN, c/o Rev. K. AKERMAN, Cloquet, Minnesota.

From Mrs. J. D. Murdoch, Quincy, Mass.

SOUTH QUINCY, MASS.—"The doctor said that I had organic trouble and he doctored me for a long time and I did not get any relief. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised and I tried it and found relief before I had finished the first bottle. I continued taking it all through middle life and am now a strong, healthy woman and earn my own living."—Mrs. JANE D. MURDOCH, 25 Gordon St., South Quincy, Mass.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL), LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Stop That Cough In A Minute

Would you give morphine or chloroform to your baby or take it yourself? Of course not. Yet most patent cough cures contain one or both. They stop a cough in a minute, which is dangerous. A cough should be cured internally by healing the lungs, loosening the phlegm, throwing it out, which is done by coughing. Badger Cough Balsam does not contain morphine or chloroform. It is made by percolation from bloodroot, lobelia, pine bark, wild cherry, etc. It cures a cough in a few days without filling the lungs with poisonous phlegm. The irritation is relieved, the lungs healed without danger of pneumonia. Safe for children or old people. Get a bottle today for 25 cents. Badger Cough Balsam is made by Mr. Frensch, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist. Badger Drug Co., Milwaukee and River Sts.
